CITY OF

BOSTON.

IN BOARD OF ALDERMEN, April 30, 1877.

Ordered, That the Record Commissioners be authorized to publish a second report, to contain a transcript of the first volume of the Town Records and of the Book of Possessions, to be printed, bound, and distributed in the same manner as their first report, at an expense not exceeding one thousand dollars, to be charged to the appropriation for printing.

Passed. Sent down for concurrence. May 3, came up concurred. Approved by the Mayor, May 7, 1877.

A true copy.

Attest :

JOHN T. PRIEST,

Asst. City Clerk.

SECOND REPORT OF THE RECORD COMMISSIONERS.

To His Honor the Mayor and the City Council of Boston : —

It will be understood, from the terms of the preceding vote, that no detailed report is to be expected from the Record Commissioners at the present time. Acting under the instructions given them, they have endeavored to present faithful transcripts of the two earliest volumes of the records of the town of Boston, viz., of the first Book of Records proper, and of the Book of Possessions.

The value of the first volume of Records consists not only in the information given as to the names and possessions of the first inhabitants, but also in its indications of the extent of the powers exercised by the town authorities. Inasmuch as the progress of town government on the New England plan is, and always will be, of great interest to the student of social science, it must be worth while to present to the public the full and exact statement of the proceedings of the greatest town in the colony.

As to the Book of Possessions, it is sufficient to say that this must be the foundation of all titles to real estate within the old town limits, and that, therefore, it was, on many accounts, most desirable that it should be made accessible and permanent by receiving the honors of print.

The records of the town of Boston, now in the custody of the City Clerk, may be described as follows:—

Ten volumes, of which the first is here printed, containing the acts of the town from 1634 to 1822. The first volume (1634–1660) contains also the acts of the Selectmen; the second volume (1660–1728) contains the acts of the Selectmen from 1660 to 1701; and thenceforward it records only the proceedings of the town. In 1701 the system was established of recording the doings of the Selectmen separately, and twenty-three volumes contain their records until 1822.

There are a few miscellaneous volumes, as the Book of Possessions, etc. In two large volumes, also, have been bound up the miscellaneous papers in the custody of the City Clerk, covering the periods of 1634–1715, 1717–1734. After this date the papers are still arranged in files and bundles.

Recently the Record Commissioners have reported to His Honor the Mayor the necessity of taking some measures to assort and preserve the records of the old courts of the County of Suffolk prior to the Revolution. In spite of the neglect which these files have suffered for many years it is highly probable that they contain documents of prime importance to the history of our town.

It may be proper to mention that very little has yet been done towards publishing the history of Boston. The magnitude of the task has probably prevented its accomplishment; and the deplorable deficiencies in the records, which it is the task of the Commissioners to repair, may also have discouraged enthusiasts. A brief sketch of the principal contributions to our local history may be of some service.

In the third volume of the Collections of the Massachusetts Historical Society, for 1794, there was printed (pp. 241–304) "A Topographical and Historical Description of Boston, 1794," by Thomas Pemberton.

Not much can be expected of a work of sixty pages on so large a subject.

Next we find the following book : —

"A Topographical and Historical Description of Boston, from the first settlement of the Town to the present period; with some account of its Environs. By Charles Shaw, Esq., Member of the American Antiquarian Society Boston: printed and published by Oliver Spear. 1817." [12mo, pp. 311. Woodcuts. S. Dearborn, del., A. Bowen, Sc. New State House, Faneuil Hall, Christ Church, Old State House, Julien's, Milk St., Triangular Warehouse, Town Dock, Fac-simile of First*entry in Town records.]

This work is based upon Pemberton's Description, with the addition of some material taken from the earlier writers. A few extracts from the Town records are given, but not enough to make the book a distinct authority. The most valuable portion is the additions to Pemberton's sketches, showing the changes between 1796 and 1817.

Next we may notice the following : —

"A History of Boston, the metropolis of Massachusetts, from its origin to the present period; with some Account of the Environs. By Caleb H. Snow, M.D. Embellished with engravings. Boston: published by Abel Bowen, No. 2 Congress-Square, Congress-street. Printed by Munroe and Francis, 128 Washington-street, 1825." 8vo, pp. 400. [It contains 29 engravings and wood-cuts, of which a list is given. Pp. 395-400 were occupied with the Index; but soon after an Appendix was published, being pp. 393-4 re-printed, and continued as pp. 395-424.]

In 1828 a second edition was published; but apparently it consisted only of the sheets of the first edition and the Appendix, with a new Index (pp. 425-427) and new title-page. It seems that Abel Bowen was the proprietor of the book, and that he issued proposals for a subsequent edition, but never carried his idea into execution. In 1829 Bowen published his "Picture of Boston" (2d edition, 1833; 3d edition, 1838), the parent of numerous guide-books.

The next book claiming our attention bears the following title : —

"A Municipal History of the Town and City of Boston, during two centuries. From September 17, 1630, to September 17, 1830. By Josiah Quincy. Boston: Charles C. Little and James Brown. 1852." 8vo, pp. 444.

This is substantially the history of Boston, under its character as a city, from 1822 to 1830. The illustrations are, a view of the Quincy Market, and a plan of the same, showing the streets and estates taken, altered, and laid out in consequence of that construction.

In 1852 the late Samuel G. Drake commenced the publication, in parts, of the History of Boston, and in 1856 issued the volume, with the following title :—

"The History and Antiquities of Boston, the Capital of Massachusetts and Metropolis of New England, from its Settlement in 1630, to the year 1770. Also an Introductory History of the Discovery and Settlement of New England, with notes, critical and illustrative. By Samuel G. Drake, A.M., &c., &c. Boston: published by Luther Stevens, 186 Washington street. 1856." 8vo, pp. 840.

It will be no disparagement to this very useful work to say that it was planned on too large a scale for success. The author received a very flattering request from the City Government to continue its publication, but was compelled by the infirmities of age to decline.

In 1871 the City Government gave official sanction to the following-named work of Mayor Shurtleff:—

"A Topographical and Historical Description of Boston. By Nathaniel B. Shurtleff. Boston: printed by request of the City Council, 1871." 8vo, pp. 720.

This was in no sense a history of the town, but rather a collection of essays relating to various historical topics. Dr. Shurtleff's familiarity with certain topics, as those of the early descriptions of the town, the maps, the graveyards, etc., etc., renders this book one of great interest and value.

Lastly, we may note Hales' "Survey of Boston," 1821, pp. 156, and Samuel Adams Drake's "Old Landmarks and Historic Personages of Boston," 1873, pp. 484, as formal contributions to our local history. Of course, there have been many minor publications devoted to limited subjects, notably histories of the various religious societies, and many public documents issued by order of the City Government.

It will be seen, however, that Boston still remains without a complete history in print, and that, therefore, the publication of any portion of its records is not unnecessary.

It is also to be remembered that Boston now comprises at least three other ancient towns, each with records and a history of its own. These may well demand in the future a proper amount of attention, and require proportionate publication.

It is hoped that the City Government will authorize the Record Commissioners to continue the work of publishing the records; of course not in full, but by means of such judicious selections as will afford valuable information about our predecessors.

Owing to the nature of the work, the duty of editing the First Book of Records, and of transcribing the Book of Possessions has devolved exclusively upon the senior Commissioner.

Respectfully submitted,

WILLIAM H. WHITMORE,
WILLIAM S. APPLETON,
Record Commissioners.

PREFACE TO THE SECOND EDITION.

The first edition of this report being out of print, the City Council has ordered the Commissioners to reprint and stereotype the volume. Advantage has been taken of this action to cause a careful revision of the whole book to be made. No important errors were discovered, but quite a number of trifling corrections have been made. As the two portions of the book were disconnected, it has seemed best to issue them as separate parts, so that those persons who wished only the Book of Possessions could have it complete. The seventh report, now nearly finished, will contain the Boston records from A.D. 1660 to 1700.

In addition to the list of histories of Boston may now be cited "The Memorial History of Boston, including Suffolk County, Massachusetts, 1630-1880. Edited by Justin Winsor, librarian of Harvard University. In four volumes.

Issued under the business superintendence of the projector, Clarence F. Jewett, Boston. James R. Osgood & Co., 1880." Vol. 1, pp. 596, and vol. 2, pp. 577, have already been issued, and this completed work will be a grand contribution to local history. It is not a continuous history, but a collection of essays by various authors, presumed to be specially familiar with the topics discussed.

BOSTON TOWN RECORDS.

NOTE. — It is intended that the following pages shall be an exact transcript of the original record, with the exception that abbreviations peculiar to written documents are herein printed in full. That is, the form "ye" for "the" "yt" for "that" "wth" for "with" "&" for "and," are confessedly not the forms used in printed documents of the date of these records. Hence, although it is intended to preserve all peculiarities of spelling, a retention of these contracted forms of writing would only unnecessarily add to the difficulty of using this transcript.

The pagination of the original volume is inserted in our text in brackets.

Every portion of the original is copied, except those marginal notes which are simply indicative of the full record in the text. No use can be found for such notes which would in any degree compensate for the additional cost of printing.

This edition is printed from a copy made by W. B. Trask, Esq., and has been compared with a copy made in 1855 by Mr. Morse for the City Government, as well as with the original record.

Bird Iland is lett to James Everill and Rich. Woody for sixty yeares, paying 12*d.* silver or a bushell of salt every first of March to the Towne Treasurer, and in defect of payment att the day 2*s.* or two bushells of salt, and so 12*d.* or a bushell of salt for every month's neglect, and the said Iland is bound for payment.

Whereas severall parcells of the townes ground is taken up by sellar doores, which proove accomodable to many of the inhabitants, and in time by custome may bee claimed to bee propriety by the present or future possessours of such houses as enjoy that priviledg. Itt is therefore ordered that every person that hath or shall have a cellar doore into any of the streetes of the towne shall pay twelve pence every first of March to the Towne Treasurer, and in case of non-payment the Treasurer of the Towne is impowred to leavy the same by distress.

Whereas Mr. Habacuck Glover hath sett up severall pillars upon the townes ground to support his house ; Itt is ordered that the said Habacuek Glover shall pay twelve pence for every such pillar so erected, every first of March to the Towne Treasurer.

Whereas divers offences arise through defective fences, and different apprehensions of the sufficiency of fences betweene proprietors ; Itt is therefore ordered that all outside fences aboutt pastures or cornefields shall bee substantially fenced, either with five rayles, or posts and pales, or sufficient stone walls, or other wise, according to the judgment of the select men ; and that all partitionall fences betweene lott and lott shall be ordered by the select men, in case of the disagreement of the proprietors ; and in case any damage arise to others, by the defect of fences, the party whose fence is defective shall pay all damages, as shall bee adjudged by the select men or any deputed by them upon the complaint of any damaged.

Itt is ordered that demanda bee made of Leiut. Turner for a high way from Elder Pen's to centry hill ; according to a former order of towne.

There is let unto Leiut. Wm. Hudson the Lane between Elder Pen and Mr. Willson's Garden, during the Townes pleasure, he paying ten shillings in mony everie first of March to the Townes Treasurer, and to secure it that it may be ready for passage of Horse and foote, without Interruption.

[143.] Whereas by long and sad experience very many and greatt damages have accrued to this towne by swine, besides the many dangers that children have beene in of loss of life and limb, and elder people also of greatt hurt, by the unrulines and ravenousnes of swine, and notwithstanding the law in that case provided by the Gen. Court that requires the making and constituting effectuall orders to prevent all harmes by swine. And although yearly endeavours have beene to attaine the end aforesaid and yett fruittles.

Itt is therefore ordered that henceforth every inhabitant in this towne that shall keepe any swine within this towne after the first of the next month they shall constantly keepe up such swine in their owne ground. And in case any swine in any part of this towne, outt of the owner's lands, the owner of such swine shall pay for every such defect two shillings, sixe pence to the Townes Treasurer, for the townes use, to be leavied by warrant under his hand, or any other of the select men, to the constable. And to the end this order may nott bee frustrated, itt shall bee lawfull for (and is desired of) every one to inform of the breach of this order, and shall have liberty to impound such swine, for which the one halfe of the fines shall bee allowed to the enformer or impounder.

And notwithstanding the aforesaid order of keeping upp swine, yett shall so keep them up to the anoyance of any neighbours or travellers through the comon streetes or high wayes, upon the fore-said penalty for every offence, after notice given them by any of the select men.

Att a meeting of Mr. Wm. Paddy, Mr. Tho. Lake, Mr. Jacob Sheafe, Ens. Jos. Scotto, Ens. Jno. Hull, and Wm. Davis.

[145.] Whereas many children and others are exposed to many dangers by Carts, either by being left carelessly in the streetes without their drivers, or else by the Carters riding through the towne in their Carts, Itt is therefore ordered that henceforth all horse-carts shall bee led by the carters with a rayne, and shall nott be left loose in any streete, butt shall bee tyed to some place where they may not break loose. And itt is further ordered that no other Carters shall bee permitted to ride in their Carts, when they drive through the towne, nor leave their oxen standing loose in any streete ; And in case any shall bee scene to act contrary to this order, they shall pay two shillings for every such offence, and this order to take place upon every Cart that shall come to this towne after due publication.

The Cedar swamp att Muddy river is lett to Ralph Mason his heyres and assigns for fifty yeares next ensuing, after the first of March next, in consideration whereof, hee shall pay yearly every first of March fourty shillings in wheate and pease proportionately ; and hee is to pay fourty shillings for this summer, and a fayre livery Cupboard for the towne house.

Whereas many careless persons carry fire from one house unto another in open fire pans or brands ends, by reason of which greatt damage may accrew to the towne ; It is therefore ordered that no person shall have liberty to carry fire from one house to another, without a safe vessell to secure itt from the wind, upon the penalty of ten shillings to bee paid by every party so fetching, and halfe so much by those that permitt them so to take fire.

Whereas there is an order in force for restraint of swine (within this towne of Boston) from passing the bounds of their owners styes or fences, which though judged meete to abide as an act, wherein the good and welfare of this place is much concerned ; yett considering the present complaints of many for want of Corne to keepe their swine up with, and the unfitness of the season of the yeare for slaughter ; And that no just grievance may bee to any by denying the benefitt of grazing in the comon this summer ; Itt is therefore hereby declared that no advantage shall bee taken against any by force of the present order untill the first of October next, provided their swine bee sufficiently yoked and ringed as the law formerly hath provided in that case. And whereas for the evading of the fines to bee leaved by distress for trespassses of swine according to towne order, many have refused to owne their swine, Itt is therefore ordered hereby that if no owner shall appeare, the hoggs trespassing shall bee forfeited to the towne, iff nott owned, and both fine and damage done by them to bee satisfied within one weeke.

[146.] 26: 5: 58.

Edward Ransfords, v s.

Edward Hutchinson, iii s.

On the last page is written, —

“An order of the Generall Court made the 3d mo.

“The chosen men of the townes are to see that parents traine up their children in learninge, labor, and employments; if not, upon presentment of the Grand Jury, or other information of their neglect, the sayd Townsmen are subject to fine.

“They may impose fines upon such parents as refuse to give the account of their childrens education.

“With consent of too magistrates they have power to put for apprentice such children whose parents are not able and fit to bringe them up.

“Every township, or such as are deputed for the towne affayres, shall present to the quarter Court all Idle and unprofitable persons, and all children who are not diligently employed per their parents: which Court shall have power to dispose of them for their on welfare and common good.”

PART II.

THE BOOK OF POSSESSIONS.

INTRODUCTION.

When the first edition of this book was prepared, the writer furnished a sketch of such facts as were obtainable in regard to its history and probable authorship. The suggestion was then made that this list of land-owners was made in 1652, after the discharge of William Aspinwall from the post of Recorder of Suffolk County. Various indications favored this surmise, but it becomes entirely untenable in view of the fact that some of the entries are evidently in the handwriting of Aspinwall. This fact was proved by Uriel H. Crocker, Esq., who published three fac-similes of Aspinwall's signature, two from other sources, and one from this book, page 33. The true date and author are matters to be considered later.

In regard to the "Book" the following testimony is interesting. It is on a slip of paper, in the library of the Massachusetts Historical Society, in a volume entitled "Letters and Papers, Boston, 1631-1783," in cabinet 61, H.

"These may Certify whome it may Concern, That when I came first into the office of Clerk of the County Court of Suffolk in the year 1672 I there found a Booke Entituled on the Cover Possessions of the Inhabitants of Boston, which I many times lookt into and extracted several things out of it at the desire of particular persons, but alwaies was in doubt of the validity of it as a Record. And it remained in the office at the time when I was dismissed.

ISA. ADDINGTON."

Succeeding generations, however, have placed a higher value on this book, and it is now recognized as the foundation of the title of most of the real estate of the old portion of the city. The volume itself, now in the custody of the City Clerk, was evidently prepared on a plan of giving a half-page to each person, and of entering under his name a list of his lands. The first 111 pages appear to have been written at one time, or at least the first entries under each name are all in one handwriting. After that the pages follow with dates appended, but in regular succession, as the following examples show : —

P. 112-20, 11 mo., 1645	P. 131-19, 8 mo., 1647
113-25, 1 " 1646	132-9, 9 " 1647
115-26, 4 " 1646	133-14, 1 " 1647
116-22, 6 " 1646	134-14, 1 " 1647
117-29, 6 " 1646	135-10, 2 " 1648
118-28, 7 " 1646	136-12, 3 " 1648

129-no date	147-10, 8 " 1648
130-13, 8 mo., 1647	148-16, 8 " 1648
	149-17, 9 " 1648

The regular record ends with this date.

On many of the pages there are additional entries, copies of deeds, and memoranda of sales; a portion of these is clearly in the handwriting of Aspinwall. At first sight it would appear as if the first entries were not in Aspinwall's handwriting; and, certainly, not only is the ink of the later entries different, but the angle of the writing and the size of the letters are different. Still, the more study is given to the matter, the greater is the conviction that all these variations are but changes of one pen, and that Aspinwall wrote all of the manuscript except a few cross-references, and such few lines as are Rawson's.

At all events, whether the first 111 pages were written by Aspinwall or another, it is desirable to try to fix a date for their compilation. We have already seen that the dated pages 112-149 cover the period from 20th, 11 mo., 1645 (i.e., January 11, 1646, of our style), to 17th, 9 mo., 1648. An examination of the various deeds entered on the first 111 pages under the original entries brings out the curious fact that the earliest dates are as follows : —

- P. 50, James Averill, 19, 11 mo. 1645
 55, David Sellick, 20, 11 mo. 1645
 83, Ralph Mason, 21, 12 mo. 1645

- 14, Thomas Leverett, 30, 1 mo. 1646
- 95, William Blontaine, 27, 4 mo. 1646
- 19, John Davies, 23, 8 mo. 1646
- 84, Richard Carter, 2, 9 mo. 1646
- 73, John Stevenson, 5, 11 mo. 1646
- 14, Edmund Jackson, 1, 12 mo. 1646
- 79, Edward Jacklin, 22, 3 mo. 1647

The inference is almost irresistible, that in the 11th month, 1645, Mr. Aspinwall began to continue the previous record of 111 pages, adding new pages for new names, and recording new transactions under the old ones.

It is well known that our General Court, on April 1st, 1634, ordered that a survey of the houses and lands of every inhabitant in every town should be made, and a transcript sent to the Court within six months. This law was, evidently, only partially obeyed, as late as September, 1639, when Stephen Winthrop was made Recorder. In September, 1642, Mr. Winthrop was allowed to go to England, and November 13, 1644, William Aspinwall was chosen Recorder till the next Court of Election. If the Book of Possessions be in Aspinwall's writing, it would seem most probable that he compiled the 111 pages during the year 1645, following his appointment.

On p. 4 of the original Richard Bellingham has recorded a piece of marsh, "with John Hills and the highway on the west: the Common Marsh on the north: John Lowe on the east: Henry Symons, John Hills and the Cove on the south." This seems to be the lot granted by the town to Bellingham, 27, 11 mo., 1644, after another strip was granted to Joshua Scottow.

Again: Thomas Scottow (p. 64) is entered as owning the lot on School street, which he sold to the town, 31st, 1 mo., 1645. Certainly this transaction must have been known very soon to all the inhabitants, as the house and lot were bought for the town's use.

So, again, Suff. Deeds, i. 59, has a deed dated 4th, 2 mo., 1645, recorded 21st same month, of Edmund Jackson to Thomas Leverett, three acres on the new field. In the Book of Possessions it still stands as number two of Jackson's lot.

It seems that Valentine Hill was an early owner of land on the east side of State street. Our town records, p. 28 of original, show that 25th, 1 mo., 1639, he had leave to build a house and shop on the lot which he had bought from William Aspinwall. By Suff. Deeds, i. 100, it seems he sold this lot, house, and shop, to David Sellick, 24, 12, 1641, and also 1st, 6 mo., 1641, to Mary Friend, a quarter of an acre bounded by the street south, Sellick west, Edward Tyng east, and said Hill north. These deeds were recorded 27, (12,) 1648.

But in the Book of Possessions Valentine Hill's lots then were, first, one on the west side of Washington street, the prison west, the meeting-house and Truesdale north: Sedgewick south; and secondly a lot beyond Valley Acre: while David Sellick is named in the Book of Possessions, p. 55, as owner of the lot which he has bought.

So, again, Suff. Deeds, i. 60, record a deed to William Davies from Valentine Hill, apparently of part of his lot, with the prison garden west, the street east, Philemont Portmont and the meeting-house north, and the ordinary in the possession of James Pen, south; dated and recorded 20th, 3d mo., 1645.

These items all seem to confirm the idea that the compilation of these 111 pages was made by Aspinwall very soon after his appointment, taking no note of sales even in the early months of 1645.

It must be remembered, however, that the record is not complete. We find many instances of persons put down as abutters on lots described, and yet no record of those persons as distinct owners. At the same time the first volume of deeds contains but few entries in regard to transfers of land in Boston at that date. In fact, in order to understand the entries in the Book of Possessions it is often necessary to refer to deeds two or three generations later, when the land was sold by measurement and description.

At a meeting of the General Court, Oct. 19, 1652, it was voted, that, whereas the passing of houses and land in England was effectually done in various ways, and whereas certain in this jurisdiction are apt to rest upon a verbal bargain or sale for houses or lands, henceforth no such sale should be good in law unless made by deed in writing, under hand and seal and delivered, or possession given, etc., unless the deed be acknowledged according to law and recorded. (Rec., iii. 280.)

They had previously, June 19, 1650 (Rec., iii. 203), provided that a sale recorded by the recorder of the county should be sufficient without any further certifying to the Secretary of the General Court.

May 6, 1657 (Rec., iii. 422), the Court recites, "The great neglect of many persons, in the infancy of these plantations, to observe any due order or legal course for the confirmation of such sales and alienation of houses and lands as have passed," and then orders that every one who did, before the passage of the law of 1652, possess or occupy house or land in fee simple, should ever after this date hold the same, unless a counter-claim was prosecuted to effect within five years from May 20, 1657.

The result was that long afterwards deeds and depositions were recorded, of which the following is an example:—

In Suffolk Deeds, lib. 12, f. 364, is the deposition dated May 5, 1683, of William Dawes, aged 64, and wife Susanna, that they lived in Boston from 1652 and before, and that Mr. Simon Eyre, physician, in the said year 1652, lived in and possessed the very same house in Boston where his son John now lives, adjoining upon the ground that was Mr. Richard Parker's and the Prison land.

Again: many estates were settled by order of the Court, and the record is to be sought in the Probate files instead of the Registry of Deeds. The note-book of Thomas Lechford, the first lawyer in the colony, fortunately preserved in manuscript, contains doubtless memoranda in regard to early transfers of land. Aspinwall refers to one volume of his records as notary public (see p. 54), and even to a second Book of Possessions. (See original, pp. 43, 50, 73, 88, 129.) His "Book of Mortgages" (see p. 14) seems to be volume first of Suffolk Deeds. The "great booke of Records of Copies, etc." (p. 77), may be the same.

October 14th or 23d, 1651, Mr. Aspinwall was set aside from his offices, Mr. Rawson was made Recorder of Suffolk, and Jonathan Negoos was made clerk of the writs for Boston. This, of course, fixes the latest date for the compilation of the Book of Possessions.

It may be well to state here that, in 1866, the late Wm. Appleton made a map of the locations of the lots of the owners mentioned in the Book of Possessions, and printed a few copies. The scale is about 16 inches by 12 inches. Mr. George Lamb has prepared a map 9 ft. 4 in. by 5 ft. 4 in., undertaking to mark thereon the outlines of the several estates. This map was purchased by the Trustees of the Public Library. It has been photographed in nine sections, and copies have been distributed for corrections. It is a very creditable beginning, but the boundary lines are purely imaginary, and will require almost entire revision. This must be the work of years, if correctness be attainable at all.

The more modest plans and descriptions prepared by Mr. Justin Winsor, for the second volume of the "Memorial History of Boston," are reproduced in the appendix to this volume, and will be found most serviceable.

It is hoped that the work herein performed will prove accurate and durable. As successive volumes are printed, information will increase, but it does not seem probable that anything can lessen the value of the Book of Possessions.

APPENDIX.

NOTES ON BOOK OF POSSESSIONS.

It has already been mentioned, in the Introduction to this Part, that Mr. Winsor had furnished in the second volume of the Memorial History of Boston, plans and descriptions elucidating the Book of Possessions. By the kindness of the publishers of that book, and in concurrence with Mr. Winsor's consent, leave was obtained to reproduce that sketch; but, on further consideration, this idea was somewhat changed. Mr. Winsor's plans were not exact parts of one map; as, for satisfactory reasons, he repeated some parts of one plan in another. In other words, if his several plans were cut out and laid side by side, they would not make one continuous map.

On the other hand, Lamb's map was constructed on a continuous system. Of its ten sheets, nine contained portions of the outline of old Boston. It seemed, therefore, best to reduce his sections to a size suited to our pages, and to give a number to each estate. In the reduced form it is impossible to give the names of the owners of lots, as Lamb has done, or to give his boundary lines. This is the less to be regretted, because, as already stated, those lines are purely imaginary. On the other hand, by using plans covering exactly the same territory as Lamb's, the present notes can always be used as a key or guide to those larger plans.

The writer has accordingly carefully revised the reduced plans and indicated the lots by numbers. For the descriptions Winsor's text was used wherever it could be, the additions and corrections being put in parenthesis and initialed. In this way the first place is given to Winsor, who is entitled to the credit of having first suggested and executed the method of making the Book of Possessions available to the general reader. In a few instances the revision has led the editor to differ from Winsor and Lamb, but in most of the descriptions there is no cause for doubt.

Of course much remains to be done in tracing each lot from the first grant to the present time. Mr. Bowditch's Gleaner articles (volume five of the Record Commissioners' Reports) show how interesting the study of old titles and boundaries may be made. As the Book of Possessions gives bounds and not measurements, the size and form of the first grant can be discovered only when these lots became subject to sale or division.

It is confidently hoped that the plans, descriptions, and numbering now submitted to all interested, will prove of sufficient assistance to stimulate renewed labor in the investigation of our early topography. The annexed table will show that all of the first grants recorded in the Book of Possessions have been located, with a reasonable degree of accuracy, covering thus the first one hundred and eleven pages of that work.

Undoubtedly the publication of the second portion of the Boston Town Records (A.D. 1660-1700), now in press, and to be issued as a Report of the Record Commissioners, will supply many facts hitherto unknown. Much also remains to be gleaned from the first volume of those Town Records already printed. Even the Records of the Colony, published by the State so many years ago, have apparently not been systematically examined for Boston items.

When the necessary material has been gathered, it will be possible to write such a history of Boston as will satisfy the antiquary; and it is not perhaps absurd to anticipate that in another century the inhabitants of our Western States will trace the noted localities in Boston with the same reverent interest with which we now visit the cities and towns of England.

[NOTE. — In the foregoing examination of the first 111 pages only three lots are not identified. These are, p. 21, Bartholomew Cheever, p. 22, John Arnold, and p. 23, John Jackson. Jackson was west of Arnold, and both had the street south, the highway north. Arnold had Thomas Munt east; Jackson had Robert Hull west. Hull was north-east of Cheever, who had the Cove south-west. I have not found a place for these lots, evidently all in one locality, and I believe Mr. Lamb also is at fault. Possibly the lots are given under other names. See also G. 17. — W.H.W.]

[NOTE. — Map A, or No. 1, of Lamb's system is merely an outline composed of the other nine joined together. We give the same as our folding Map A. — W.H.W.]

MAP B, OR NO. 2.

MAP B, OR NO. 2.

It does not appear that any grant of land was made so far south as this. The east end is about on Castle street, which was the south line of William Colborn's field. The cross-lines in the centre agree with the fortifications, which were a little south of Dover street. A few items from the town records will show the use made of the land. Oct. 28, 1639, Samuel Sherman was allowed to keep up his cow-house, which he had built upon the common by the gate next Roxbury, and had leave to mow the plot "compassed about with small creeks next the great creek between Roxbury and us." April 27, 1640, Sherman's leave was renewed, and he was "enjoined to set his fence straight, so as he do not encroach upon the highway." He had liberty for several years to mow there.

26th, 6mo, 1644, "It is ordered and agreed with James Penn, that in consideration of his land at the Fort hill, be it more or less, he shall have three acres laid out next to William Hibbins his land near Roxbury gate."

On May 31, 1652 (Suff. Deeds, i., 211), William Hibbins, of Boston, sold to Margery Eliot, widow, for the use of her children by elder Jacob Eliot, her late husband, five acres of land near Roxbury gate, bounded north and south by land of Jacob Eliot, west by Boston Common, east by the highway to Roxbury.

And at the same time James Penn sold to Margery Eliot, five acres at Roxbury gate, part marsh, part upland, bounded by land of Mr. William [Hibbins? — the name is lacking] south, Boston Common north, Roxbury creek west, and the highway to Roxbury east.

About the same time, May 27, 1652 (Col. Rec., iii., 274) it is recorded that "In answer to the petition of Margery Eliot, widow, for the confirmation of the sale of a certain parcel of land, sold by the deacons of the Church of Boston, administrators to Sam. Sherman, unto Joseph Eliot, deceased, ordered," — that an answer be delayed until next session, and that the administrators give an account to the next County Court.

May 7, 1662 (Rec., Vol. iv., Part ii., p. 47) the Court decided on the petition of Samuel and Nathaniel Sherman, and Mary Clarke, children of the late Sam. Sherman, against Mr. Colborn, administrator, that they had no cause of complaint.

28th, 2 mo. 1645, liberty was granted to Widow Howen to cut hay for the wintering of one cow, in some part of the marsh near Roxbury gate, where cattle cannot come to feed.

11th, 1 mo, 1650, Peter Oliver was allowed £15 annually for seven years to maintain the highways from Jacob Eliot's barn to the farthest gate by Roxbury town's end, for cart and horse.

MAP C, OR NO. 3.

LOTS NO 1 TO NORTH SIDE OF BOYLSTON STREET, FROM WASHINGTON STREET TO THE BACK BAY.

C. a. Garret Bourne. See F. 104. East side of Washington st.

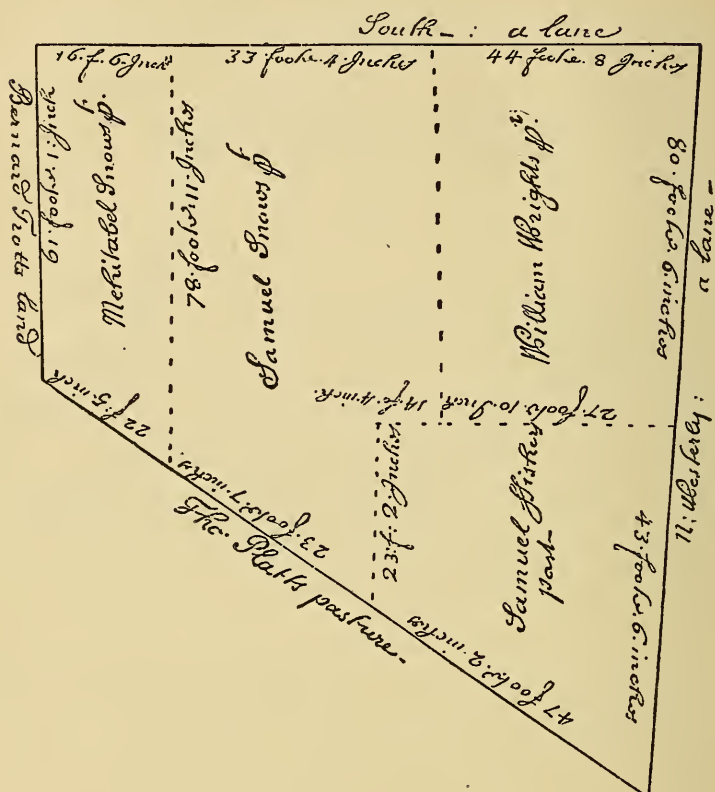

C. 1. William Colborn. [House and garden, with J. Leger north, the High street east, the lane and E. Belcher south, no west bound. This was the north-west corner of Washington and Boylston streets. — W.H.W.]

C. 2. Edward Belcher. [House and garden, with Mr. Colborn east and north, the lane south, W. Talmage west. Evidently a front lot, with Colborn's lot behind it. It was afterwards divided. Bernard Trott bought the west half, being 70 feet wide and 71 feet deep, and the east half was given in the same year to Mary, wife of Edward Belcher, Jr. — W.H.W.]

C. 3. William Talmage. [House and garden, with the street south, E. Belcher east, T. Snow north and west. In 1669 Talmage sold the west half of this lot to Bernard Trott. It was 63 feet south on Snow's lane, west 57 feet on Snow, north 54 feet on Snow's orchard. The east half was sold in 1704 by Anne Flack, as heiress of Talmage, to William Griggs, bound south on the street 48 feet, west by Griggs (who must have got the Trott half), north by Platt 60 feet, east by land late of Talmage 64 feet. Thus the full lot was 64 feet on the east, 131 feet on Boylston street, 114 feet on the rear, and 57 feet on the west. — W.H.W.]

C. 4. Thomas Snow. [Lot not recorded, but clearly shown in bounds of C. 3 and C. 5. In 1667 Snow sells to H. Usher, T. Lake, and P. Oliver, his old dwelling-house "on which the sign of the Dove is fastened." He sells in breadth south to the path leading to his new house which faces on the street, and so to the fence which parts the house lots from the pasture; and also the pasture, which has this fence south, Colbron and Talmage east, the lane issuing out of the Common west, and land now fenced in by Gov. Bellingham north. After Snow died his widow, Milcha, or Milcah, married William Wright, and in 1672 they sold the pasture above described to Thomas Platts. In 1678 the heirs made a division. They were Samuel Snow, Mehitable Snow, Meletiah, wife of Samuel Fisher, of Braintree, and Abigail wife of William Wright, Jr., her step-brother. (In 1683 Samuel sold his lot to Platt.)

A plan is recorded (Suff. Deeds, ii., f. 82) which is here given as one of the earliest in our registry.

The lot of Gov. Bellingham, mentioned in 1667, was evidently the lot granted him 29th. 3 mo. 1665 (Boston Records, Vol. 2, p. 20), as follows: "In consideration of Land received of Richard Bellingham, esq, for the Town high way toward Roxbury, in exchange thereof we have granted and laid out a square piece of ground butting upon Thomas Snow on the south, and Mr. Colbron on the east, and the Common on the west, and north as it is now fenced in." Bellingham had given $33\frac{1}{4}$ rods to the street (Records, Vol. 2, p. 16), which was at the time, September, 1664, when Washington street was laid out south from Boylston street on the present line. The old road to Roxbury was east, following the beach.

[The lane west, now Tremont street, must have been laid out between 1665 and 1667. — W.H.W.]

C. 5. Robert Walker. [House and garden, with the street south, the Common north, T. Snow east, W. Brisco west. — W.H.W.]

C. 6. William Briscoe. [House and garden, with the street south, the Common north, R. Walker east, and — Flacke west. — W.H.W.]

C. 7. Cotton Flack. [Lot not recorded. In 1658, Jane, widow of Cotton Flack, sold to Thomas Clarke a house and garden of about half an acre, with a common lane south, the Common north, Goodman Briscoe east, and said Thomas Clarke west. 29th. 4 mo. 1640. "Cotton Flack hath a house lot granted him in the way from Mr. Coleburne's house to the sea, next to Goodman Briscoe's." (Boston Records, vol. 1, p. 44.) In 1676 Clarke sold this lot to his son-in-law Thomas Baker, sen., who married his daughter Leah. Their children were Thomas, John, Mary, and Rachel, who married George Waldron. These Bakers sold to their brother-in-law Waldron, in 1704, land bounded east 300 feet on Edward Bromfield, north 261 feet on the Common, west 361 feet on the Common, south 438 feet on the street. In 1714 Waldron sold his lot to Col. Thomas Fitch, whence it came to Andrew Oliver, Jr., who sold to William Foster in 1780, from whom the town in 1787 bought it.

As Flack had Clarke west, it is perhaps useless to inquire how much was covered by Flack's lot. Evidently Clarke was the most westerly owner, and the lane "turned south to the sea," leaving some common land and marsh outside him at the west. — W.H.W.]

C. 8. Jacob Eliot. [House and garden, with the highway east, W. Talmage west, the lane north, and Mr. Colborne's field south. This is the south-west corner of Washington and Boylston streets, where the market now stands. In the division of Eliot's property this went to his son-in-law, Theophilus Frary, thence to his daughter Abigail, wife of Berechiah Arnold, then to her only child, Hannah, who married Samuel Welles. The market-house was moved south eleven feet in 1870. — W.H.W.]

C. 9. William Talmage. [His lot No. 2, a garden bounded with J. Eliot east and south, the street north, and R. Walker west. This lot seems in 1690 to be in possession of Capt. Samuel Veazie (see his will, Suff. Wills, xi., 243), and so in accordance with deeds of adjoining estate. He was twice married, left no issue, but had five sisters. Yet, in 1706, Anne, widow of Cotton Flack, as niece and sole heiress of William Talmage, sold this lot to John Clough. (Suff. Deeds, xxii., 486.) Her mother was Christian Belcher, own sister to Talmage, and Anne was the only daughter. (See deposition of John Marion.) (Deeds, xxi., 644.)

Clough, or a son of the same name, seems to have remained the owner in 1740, when Holyoke street was laid out through it; a street also called Clough street, and now Tremont street. — W.H.W.]

C. 10. Robert Walker. [His second lot, with W. Talmage east, the street north, J. Cranwell west, and J. Eliot south. This lot seems to have passed to Thomas Downes prior to 1674, and to have been exchanged by him with his brother-in-law, Capt. Jacob Eliot. Eliot gave it, 19 March, 1678-9, to his son-in-law, Elizur Holyoke, when the lot was about 60 feet wide and 132 feet deep. I have been obliged to assume various unrecorded divisions of the Eliot.

lands among the various branches of the family, in order to make any sense out of the existing deeds.— W.H.W.]

C. 11. John Cranwell. [House and garden, with Robert Walker east, the street north, R. Root west, and on the south two acres belonging to the same; which two acres had the garden north, Mr. Roe east, R. Croychley west and south. Cranwell's lots went to his brother, Richard C. of Woodbridge, in the county of Suffolk, who in 1642 made his brother-in-law, Thomas Marrett of Cambridge, his attorney. Marrett sold, in 1652, to Margery, widow of the first Jacob Eliot. In fact Dea. Eliot had bargained for the lot before he died, and left it by will to his daughter Hannah, who married Theophilus Frary.— W.H.W.]

C. 12. Ralph Roote. [House and garden, with J. Cranwell east, J. Cranwell and R. Croychley south, W. Salter west, and the street north. This lot was sold in March, 1659–60, to James Balston.— W.H.W.]

C. 13. William Salter. [House and garden, with R. Roote east, the street north, J. Eliot and R. Croychley south, the Common west. This was the end lot, on the south side of Boylston street. In 1689, at a division of Salter's land, this lot was assigned to his son Jabez, when it bounded north and west on the highway to Fox Hill, south on J. Eliot, east on the marsh in the occupation of the heirs of John Leverett. I suspect that there had been an encroachment by the sea between Salter's land and Roote's lot, as this marsh on the east seems new. Frog Lane "turned southerly to the sea," in 1708, according to the list of streets; and we know the "Round Marsh" was the old terminus of the road.— W.H.W.]

C. 14. William Salter. [His lot No. 2, being an acre in Mr. Colborne's field, with the Common north, the Bay west, J. Eliot south and east. This lot was sold in 1678 by Mary, widow of William Salter, to John Leverett.— W.H.W.]

C. 15. Richard Croychley. [His lot No. 2, being two acres in Mr. Colborne's field, with J. Eliot east and west, R. Parker south, W. Salter north. This lot he held in right of his step-children, he having married Alice, widow of William Dinely. This lot of $2\frac{1}{2}$ acres seems to have been sold in 1669 by Father-gone Dinely to Jacob Eliot, when the south bound was on lands of John Leverett, who seems to have the Parker lot. Perhaps Dinely exchanged with Eliot, for in 1675 D. sold to Leverett $2\frac{1}{2}$ acres "lately bought of J. Eliot," with Colborne's heirs south, Eliot north and east, the sea west. All of these Leverett lots seem to have passed to Elisha Cook, son-in-law of J. Leverett.— W.H.W.]

C. 16. Richard Parker. [Lot not in the Book, but mentioned in the bounds of C. 15. Undoubtedly it passed to Eliot or Leverett.— W.H.W.]

C. 17. Mr. Roe. [Lot mentioned as east of Cranwell's lot, C. 11, but not otherwise mentioned.

20th, 4 mo., 1646, land at Mount Wallaston was laid out for Owen Roe (or Rowe) of London, "having a house and town's lott among us and certain cattell." He never came here, and doubtless this lot passed to some resident. — W.H.W.]

C. 18. William Colborn. [His field not laid down in the Book, though cited in C. 15. Croychley's lot was the great end grant. By a decision of our Supreme Court, in 1840 (Sparhawk vs. Bullard, 1 Met., 95), it was fixed that Colborn's south line was the north side of Castle street. If, as I suppose, John Cornish was an heir of Colborn, then the Dinely lots were the north bound of the Colborn field. The subsequent history of this land is connected with that of the Eliot property, in the hands of Eliots, Frarys, Lillies, Belchers, and others. — W.H.W.]

Winsor writes, "Here, upon what was later known as Hollis street, upon land given by Governor Belcher, who lived in the neighborhood, a small wooden meeting-house was built in 1732, in which Mather Byles was the first minister. This building stood upon the present site of the church till 1787. Byles lived in a house whose site is partly covered by Tremont street, opposite where Shawmut avenue enters it. Belcher lived on the easterly side of the main street, on the lot between the present Harvard and Bennett streets. (Drake's Boston, 585.) Belcher's mansion was bought in 1765 by Thomas Amory, the loyalist. For the grants south of Castle street see Gleaner Articles, No. 13."

C. 19. [Not located on map. This is William Davies, Sr.'s, lot No. 3, thus described: "One acre bounded with Jacob Eliot east and south, Mr. Colbourne west, and the sea on the north. This lies in Mr. Colborne's field." (Book of Possessions, p. 57.) This description is very bewildering, for there is no part of Colborne's field where the sea is north. Possibly it means some lot on the east side of Washington street, but it must be studied up carefully. — W.H.W.]

C. 20. Lots not located. [It seems that 27th, 7 mo., 1641, "there is a house-lott graunted to John Search neare unto the house-lott of Robert Walker." Again, 29th, 7 mo., 1645, "there is graunted unto Arthur Clarke a howse-lot next unto the house-lot of John Search, to be layd out by Wm. Colbron and Jacob Eliot." In the Book of Possessions, p. 95, William Blaintain's lot No. 2 is "a house-lott, bounded with John Serch west, William Brisco east, the street south, and the Common north." But on the 30th, 1 mo., 1646, "William Brisco, Tho. Buttolfse, [Jacob] Leager, William Blanton, John Search, Robert Woodward, that hath hows lots unbuilt on them, shalbe warned to the next townse mettinge." As Cotton Flack, 29th, 4 mo., 1640, had a house lot granted him in the way from Mr. Coleborne's house to the sea, next to Goodman Briscoe's, which he held afterwards, and as Blaintain's grant would have been this very lot, and Serch was west of that, and Clark next to Serch, it seems extremely probable that these three grants were "unbuilt on," because Mr. Flack protested. We may safely assume that they came to nought. — W.H.W.]

MAP D, OR No. 4.

MAP D, OR NO. 4.

The outline given herein is that of the Common, and of the part which was probably never granted. As already shown by Map C, there was a row of house-lots on the north side of Boylston street, which the town long afterwards bought back. It would be useless to try to fix the extreme north boundaries of these, as they have again been merged in Boston Common.

The island herein shown is Fox Hill, a small eminence long since dug down, but which was probably near the site of the present pond in the Public Garden. The lower part of the Common was a marsh, and this hill must have been quite small in size. It was, however, sometimes utilized. In 1640 Leonard Buttall was allowed to burn lime there, and in 1641 to have a second kiln, "provided that he shall have no propriety of land by virtue thereof." In 1649 Thomas Painter was allowed to set up a mill there at forty shillings rent.

3d, 2 mo., 1652. "Ensign James Oliver and Sargent Peter Oliver are granted liberty for to set up a wind mill on the top of the hill between the town and the hill called Fox Hill; which said mill they are to fence in from harm and damage unto any cattle, and to pay unto the treasurer of the town the sum of 12d. per year to be paid yearly on the forfeit of 5s. for every quarter of a year which it shall not be paid into the treasurer, it being demanded in due season, the time to begin the first day that the said mill shall grind, and to continue to be paid unto the town so long as the mill shall there stand.

"Also, — the chief military commander of this town, and also the chief commander of the regiment hath power at any time of their military exercise whether of the town or regiment for to cause the mill to stand still, — within the grant of this liberty to set up this mill, is reserved as a condition to be performed by the owners for employers of the said mill."

Feb. 26, 1665, the selectmen made a lease to Gov. John Leverett of a parcel of land lying and being in Boston aforesaid, called or known by the name of Fox Hill, with all the marsh about the same as far as the salt water flows, bounded with the Highway south, with the Town's Commons east and north, and with the Beach and Sea west. It was to be for a term of forty years, at an annual rent of thirty shillings, with liberty reserved for the inhabitants to fetch sand or clay from the hill.

Fox Hill continued to figure on our maps to the beginning of the present century, sometimes marked as a promontory, but once at least as an island.

MAP E, OR NO. 5.

E. 1. John Cogan, $\frac{1}{2}$ acre. Cogan's executrix sold to Joshua Scottow, 1659, and he to Colonel Samuel Shrimpton, in 1670, and he in turn to John Oxenbridge, in 1671, who left it to his daughter, wife of Richard Scott, and they conveyed it to her sister's husband, Peter Thacher, in 1706. It then passed, in 1707, to Samuel Myles; in 1728, to George Cradock, and, in 1733, to John Jeffries (son of the emigrant David Jeffries), from whom it passed to Samuel Eliot. (Gleaner Articles, No. 33.)

[It was his lot No. 2, about half an acre, with Mr. Bellingham north, Mr. Wilson south, the burying-place east, and the New Field west. — W.H.W.]

E. 2. Rev. John Wilson's garden-plot, divided by the street, when laid out in 1640; and the portion north of the street, in 1658, belonged to Elder James Penn, of the First Church, who devised the estate to his kinsman, Colonel Penn Townsend, whose executor, in 1750, sold it to Samuel Sturgis, and thence the title passed through John Erving, Gilbert Deblois, Nathaniel Coffin, and John Amory, to Samuel Eliot, and became his mansion estate. (Gleaner Articles, No. 33.)

[James Brown, Book, p. 41, has a half acre in the new field, with Mr. Wilson's garden north-east, A. Messenger north-west, the Common south. — W.H.W.]

E. 3. James Pen. [I cannot find that this lot was mentioned in the Book of Possessions. It was the hill-side, with the summit rising high above it, and was undoubtedly considered valueless at this date. The changes made by cutting down the hill and opening streets make it almost impossible to fix any lines on a map. Bowditch gives all the information attainable, and even he has to generalize. I cannot agree with Winsor (see his Map F, Nos. 15 and 16), that William Kirkby or Richard Sanford owned here. Penn owned here as early as 1658, says Bowditch, having the corner lot (the "Albion"), in all 70 feet, on Tremont street; he probably acquired of Coggan or Wilson. — W.H.W.]

E. 4. Robert Turner. [This great tract, made up of purchases and possible grants, is not in the Book. Gleaner Art. 36 shows that in 1665 Turner bought $1\frac{1}{2}$ acres of land of William Pell, having Turner east and south; Bowditch thinks that Turner had some eight acres, including all the front land on Beacon street from Penn's lot, or Somerset street, to the State House. The east bound was five feet west of Somerset street. Turner's son-in-law, John Fayerweather, died in 1712, owning 124 feet on Beacon street, at the east portion of the Turner lot, reaching to Freeman place.

He had sold the west part, 135 feet on Beacon street, to Pollard, whence derived James Bowdoin. Other heirs of Turner inherited other parts. — W.H.W.]

E. 5. Thomas Millard. [His lot No. 2, with the Common south, N. Eaton north, T. Scottow east, R. Truesdale west. This calls for a lot for Scottow, east, possibly sold to Turner before this date; part of his front line which Turner owned in 1655. Joshua Scottow also has lot No. 2, two acres in the new field, possibly hereabouts. — W.H.W.]

E. 6. Richard Truesdale. [His lot No. 2, three-quarters of an acre, with the Common south, N. Eaton north, T. Millard east, Z. Bosworth west. — W.H.W.]

E. 7. [An unrecorded lot of Nathaniel Eaton, north of E. 5 and E. 6, — i. e., as I take it, up the hill towards or beyond Mt. Vernon street. — W.H.W.]

E. 8. Zaccheus Bosworth. [His lot No. 2, being two acres in the New Field, with the Common south, W. Wilson and J. Rugles north, R. Truesdale east, J. Parker west. — W.H.W.]

E. 9. Jane Parker. [Her lot No. 2, with Thomas Millard east, Z. Bosworth, W. Beamsley, and R. Sherman north-west, Sellick Chappel, Leyer and Pepys southerly. — W.H.W.]

E. 10. These seem to have been granted, 1637–38, to William Hudson, Jr., Nathaniel Chappell, and Oliver Mellows. Later, Chappell was bounded on either hand by David Sellick and Jacob Leger, when Leger's lot is called about an acre. Francis East acquired this, and perhaps the other lots later still.

[Thus far I substantially agree with Lamb, except that he puts Francis East here at the date of the Book, when, in reality, he seems to be of later date. See Gleaner Article, No. 66. — W.H.W.]

E. 11. Richard Pepys. [Not entered in the Book, but cited in E. 9. — W.H.W.] It was William Blackstone's reservation of six acres when he sold his rights to the town, in 1634. The original release of Blackstone to the town was in 1734, in the Town Clerk's office, but is not now to be found. The signatures of Blackstone in the Memorial History, Vol. 2, are from the records of the university at Cambridge, England, and I owe the tracings to the kind attention of the Rev. George Phear of Emmanuel College. They respectively represent his writing at the dates of his taking his bachelor's and master's degrees. His orchard is indicated on Bonner's map as an enclosure with trees, just east of the present Louisburg square. The limits of the lot are defined in Bowditch's Gleaner Articles, No. 1, quoted in Sewall Papers, i., 74. It extended on Beacon street, from Spruce street, "the north-east corner of Mr. William Blackstone's payles" (Town Records, March, 1637–38), to the water, then flowing above Charles street. (See diagram in Mr. Adams's chapter in Mem. Hist., Vol. 1.) Richard Pepys bought it, and built a house on it, which William Pollard occupied for nearly fourteen years, during which time Blackstone "frequently resorted to it" on his visits from Rhode Island, as Anne Pollard deposed in 1711. (Sewall Papers, i., 73.) Pepys sold it, in 1655, to Nathaniel Williams, and Williams's widow marrying Peter Bracket, the latter conveyed it to Williams's children. The original house appears to have been standing, as Mr. Hassam points out to me, in 1662, when the inventory of the estate of Nathaniel Williams, led that year, shows this item: "It. the House and land y^t was m^r Blackston's. [£]150:00:00." In 1708-9 the orchard and pasture were sold to Thomas Bannister, and it appears as "Bannister's Gardens" on Burgiss's map of 1728. "Gleaner" traced this descent of the lot in 1828, and printed the story in the Boston Courier, and repeated it in the Transcript in 1855. (See also Gleaner Articles, No. 50.) The lot was later a part of the possession of John Singleton Copley, the painter, and from him passed to the Mount Vernon proprietors.

LOTS No. 12 TO 22, INSIDE THOSE BOUNDED BY BEACON STREET.

E. 12. Thomas Millard. [His lot No. 3, of one acre, in the New Field, with Jane Parker west, William Wilson east, Z. Bosworth, John Ruggles, and E. Dennis north, south bound blank. — W.H.W.]

E. 13. William Wilson. [Two and a half acres in the New Field, with R. Parker east, J. Ruggles west, Z. Bosworth south, W. Hudson, Sr., north. — W.H.W.]

E. 14. Richard Parker. [Lot unrecorded. — W.H.W.]

E. 15. John Ruggles. [Lot unrecorded, but mentioned in other bounds. — W.H.W.]

E. 16. Edmund Dennis. [His lot No. 2, half an acre in the New Field, with J. Ruggles east, Z. Bosworth west, T. Millard south, T. Clarke north. — W.H.W.]

E. 17. Zaccheus Bosworth. [Probably his lot No. 3, of an acre and a half, in the New Field, with T. Millard south, James Johnson north, E. Dennis east, and R. Sherman west. — W.H.W.]

E. 18. Richard Sherman. [Lot unrecorded, but see Bosworth's west bound in last paragraph. — W.H.W.]

E. 19. William Beamsley. [Lot unrecorded, but cited in Jane Parker's bounds, E. 9. — W.H.W.]

E. 20. Robert Wing. [His lot No. 2, half an acre, with the River west, Mr. Pepys south, J. Everill and — east. — W.H.W.]

E. 21. Francis Lyle. [His lot No. 2, of half an acre, in the New Field, no bounds given. — W.H.W.]

E. 22. James Johnson. [His lot No. 3, of an acre, in the New Field, with Z. Bosworth south, J. Biggs north, F. Lyle west, and T. Clarke east. — W.H.W.]

LOTS TOUCHING CAMBRIDGE STREET.

E. a. John Biggs. [His lot of marsh was on both sides of Cambridge street, — see G. 47. Gleaner, Article 18, seems to think that Biggs acquired some upland also. — W.H.W.]

E. 23. Thomas Clarke. [Lot unrecorded, but cited in E. 22 and E. 24. — W.H.W.]

E. 24. Thomas Buttolph. [His lot No. 8, bought of W. Hudson, Sr., 16th, 4 mo., 1646, of five acres in the New Field, with J. Johnson west, R. Cooke east, W. Wilson south, and — Davis, the apothecary, north. Note that this is also recorded in the Book, p. 57, with T. Clarke west. Johnson seems to have bought the west part of Clarke's lot. In Gleaner's article No. 20 it is shown that J. Johnson, having bought Lyle's lot also, sold, in 1649, to Buttolph, $3\frac{1}{2}$ acres in Centry field, thus making Buttolph's lot $8\frac{1}{2}$ acres. Thus enlarged, the Buttolph lot reached from Cambridge street about 625 feet, to Myrtle street, and from Buttolph street on the west to Hancock street on the east. — W.H.W.]

E. 25. Richard Cooke. [His lot No. 3, being in the New Field a certain parcel with William Hudson, Sr. west (i.e., Buttolph's), and Valentine Hill west. — W.H.W.]

E. 6. Valentine Hill. [This is better shown as H. 16, and thus completes the grantees when the Book of Possessions was prepared. — W.H.W.]

MAP F, OR NO. 6.

MAP F, OR NO. 6.

LOTS 1 TO 3, EAST SIDE OF SCHOOL AND MILK STREETS.

F. A. John Cogan. His lot is described in Map E. It is the Albion building, corner of Tremont and Beacon streets.

F. B. The burying-ground, out of which, in Andros' time, was taken the lot for the King's Chapel.

F. 1. Thomas Scottow, house and garden. His will is in N. E. Hist. and Geneal. Reg., Oct., 1856, p. 362. He sold to the town, in 1645, the present City Hall lot. The town built a school-house upon it, and Mr. Woodmansy, the teacher, lived in the old house. Woodmansy bequeathed his "little estate," in 1677, to his wife Margaret, and his daughters Martha and Bethia. His will is in N. E. Hist. and Geneal. Reg., Jan., 1862, p. 55. In 1666 Daniel Henschman was employed to assist Woodmansy. Benjamin Tompson succeeded Woodmansy in 1667, acting with Henschman. Jan. 3, 1671, the celebrated Ezekiel Cheever took the school, and kept it until 1703. An account of Cheever, by Mr. Hassam, in N. E. Hist. and Geneal. Reg., 1879, p. 175, gives various particulars about the school-house while it was in charge of this master. Cheever was succeeded by Nathaniel Williams. Thomas Prince preached Williams' funeral sermon, which was printed in N. E. Hist. and Geneal. Reg., Oct., 1854, p. 368. Williams died in 1738, and was followed by John Lovell.

Between the teacher's house and the school-house Richard Cooke was permitted, in 1652, to build, paying a ground rent, which went for the school-master's salary. In 1703 a new school-house was built on the spot. The ground now in front of the City Hall was sold by the town later, and again repurchased. Just below this there stood, in the provincial times, the dwelling of Jean Paul Mascarene, a Huguenot, who went to Nova Scotia in 1711, became Governor there; but died in Boston, in 1760. A little further down the street was the "Cromwell's Head Tavern," a somewhat famous resort in the provincial period; and here Washington lodged when he came to Boston, in 1756. Just above this inn lived the merchant and wit, Joseph Green.

F. c. Richard Hutchinson. The corner of his lot on School street shows here, and is fully described as G. 62.

F. 2. Governor Winthrop's. His house stood nearly opposite the foot of School street. His "green" is now occupied by the Old South Church. Before his death he deeded the property to his son Stephen, reserving right of occupancy of one-half for his own and his wife's life. The property came into the possession of John Norton, the minister of the First Church, whose will is given in N. E. Hist. and Geneal. Reg., October, 1857, p. 342; and his widow gave it to the Third Church, and upon it their first edifice was built, in 1670, — a wooden structure, which gave place, in 1729, to the present building.

F. 3. Atherton Hough, house. This is the point at which James Boutineau, who married a sister of Peter Faneuil, in the provincial period, had his mansion. [This is his lot No. 2, street south, Common west, Mr. Hibbins east, R. Sherman north. — W.H.W.]

LOTS 4 TO 13, SOUTH-WEST SIDE OF MILK STREET, FROM WASHINGTON STREET DOWN THE HILL.

F. 4. Robert Reynolds, shoemaker, house and garden. His will, 1658, is in N. E. Hist. and Geneal. Reg., April, 1855, p. 137; gives his house and orchard, after his wife's decease, to his son Nathaniel, who removed to Bristol, R.I. A family distinguished in the medical profession represents the blood in Boston to-day. [He had the High street west, and the Fort street north. — W.H.W.]

F. 5. John Stevenson, house and garden. His widow married William Blackstone, and the lot passed, in 1646, to Abraham Page; and then, same year, to John Hansett, of Roxbury; but the spot got its chief glory sixty years later, when Benjamin Franklin was born here.

F. 6. Nathaniel Bishop, house and garden. A lane was laid out (Oct. 15, 1645; March 23, 1646) west of this lot, running through to Summer street, nearly the present Hawley street, and known early as Bishop's alley.

[He had a deep lot, having J. Stevenson, R. Waite, and E. Fletcher west. W. Hudson, Sr., was on his south. — W.H.W.]

F. 7. Nicholas Parker. [House and garden, with the street north, R. Scott south, N. Bishop west, James Penn east. — W.H.W.]

F. 8. James Penn. [House and garden, with the street north, R. Parker west, J. Kenrick east; no south bound; but Robert Scott and Thomas Oliver were on his south, as their lots (F. 37, and F. 36) show. — W.H.W.]

F. 9. John Kendrick. [House and garden, with the street north, J. Penn west, W. Dinsdale east; no south bound; but clearly it was T. Oliver's garden. See his lot F. 36. — W.H.W.]

F. 10. William Dinsdale. [House and garden, with the street north, R. Scott south, J. Leverett west, R. Rice east. This west bound is not explained. — W.H.W.]

F. 11. Robert Rice. [House and garden, with the street north, Capt. Keayne south, W. Dinsdale west, W. Pell east. — W.H.W.]

F. 12. William Pell. [House and garden, with the street north, Capt Keayne south, R. Rice west, and J. Spooore east. — W.H.W.]

F. 13. John Spooore. [His lot No. 2, of an acre and a half, with the street north, R. Turner south, R. Fairbanks east, Capt. R. Keayne and W. Pell west. See also G. 74, which probably joined this on the north. — W.H.W.]

LOTS 14 TO 18, AROUND FORT HILL AND THE SHORE, NORTH TO SUMMER STREET.

F. 14. Richard Fairbanks. [His lot No. 4, on the Fort field, with J. Spooore west, Mr. Hibbens north-east, R. Turner south-west, R. Gridley south-east. (Mr. Hibbens' lot is shown in G. 75.) The street (Fort street, now Milk street) ran through Spooore's two lots, and seems to have ended against Fairbanks or the Creek. — W.H.W.] Richard Fairbanks' pasture, 5 a. It was this pasture, east of the present Pearl street, that Theodore Atkinson, not long after 1700, sold to Edward Gray, who built ropewalks on it in 1712. They are seen in Bonner's map in 1722. In 1732 a lane running parallel to the building was called Hutchinson street, changed in 1800 to Pearl. A son, John Gray, succeeded to the business. Gleaner Articles, No. 16, traces the history of these ropewalk lots.

F. 15. Richard Gridley. [Another lot, with R. Turner north-west, J. Harrison south-west, the Bay south-east, and the Fort north-east. — W.H.W.] Richard Gridley's pasture. It was in this pasture, which, in Bonner's map, is intersected by Gibbs's lane, with Gibbs's wharf on the shore just north of it, that Colonel Robert Gibbs built his famous house, which surprised the colonial town by its costliness. His wife Elizabeth survived him.

F. 16. William Davies, Sr. His lot No. 2, of a house and three quarters of an acre, with the water south-east, R. Gridley south-west, north-west and north-east. — W.H.W.]

F. 17. John Harrison, house. He established on this lot the first rope-walk, about 1641. (Gleaner Articles, No. 16.)

F. 18. Richard Gridley, captain of militia, house and land. It was on this ground, after Purchase street, then called Belcher's Lane, was laid out, that Captain Samuel Adams, the father of the patriot, lived; and here, in 1722, the latter was born, in a fine, commanding house overlooking the harbor. Adjoining was his malt-house and other buildings. Adams, the father, had bought the lot in 1712, and a wharf on the water-front was long known by his name. East of this, on a line of the present Gridley street, Captain John Bonner lived.

LOTS 19 TO 22, BOUNDED BY SUMMER AND SOUTH STREETS AND THE SOUTH COVE.

F. 19. Nicholas Baxter. [House and lot, with the street or lane north and west, E. Brown and the Bay east, M. Irons south. — W.H.W.]

F. 20. Edward Brown. [House and garden, with N. Baxter north and west, the Bay east, M. Irons south. — W.H.W.]

F. 21. Matthew Irons or Irons. [House and lot, with the lane west, the Bay east, N. Baxter and E. Brown north, W. Leatherland south. — W.H.W.]

F. 22. William Leatherland. [House and lot, with the lane west, the Bay east, M. Irons north, and A. Porter and the Cove south. The lane which was the west bound of these three lots, F. 19, 21 and 22, is South street. Abel Porter is not in the Book; but Winsor seems to give him the extreme end, or Windmill Point. — W.H.W.]

LOTS 23 TO 28, SOUTH SIDE OF SUMMER STREET, WEST OF SOUTH STREET.

F. 23. William Teft. [House and lot, with the Cove south, the lane east, the Mill street north, T. Munt and (Anne) Tuttle west. — W.H.W.] William Teft was enjoined, in 1644, not to "plant it with Indian corn, nor anything that may hinder the wind-mill." The records show that William Tefte, tailor, agreed to buy Jacob Wilson's house and ground in 1638; and that in 1639-40 he bought a house and $\frac{1}{2}$ acre of Edward Gibbons, which the latter had bought of William Mauer, and he of William Hudson, Sr., in 1639.

F. 24. Thomas Munt. [House and lot, with W. Teft east and north, the Cove south, J. Negoos west. — W.H.W.] Thomas Munt had permission in 1635 to fence in a piece of marsh before his house for the making of brick. (See N. E. Hist. and Geneal. Reg., April, 1862, p. 162.)

F. 25. Jonathan Negoos. [House and lot, with the Cove south, W. Teft north, T. Munt east, T. Foster west. — W.H.W.]

F. 26. Thomas Foster. [House and lot, with the Cove south, Mrs. Tuttle north, J. Negoos east, and R. Woodhouse west.

F. 27. Richard Tuttle, and afterward his widow, had a wind-mill here, near the present Church-Green estate. In 1642 permission was given to remove the wind-mill into the fort; but the lot had a wind-mill on it when it subsequently passed to Edward Holyoke, Richard Woodward, and then to William Aspinwall. It was often spoken of as the "South Wind-mill." After that portion of Bedford street (called Blind lane) which connects with Summer street was cut through, the lot formed by the junction seems to have come into the possession of the town, by which it was granted, in 1715, to a new society, which became the New South Church. The edifice then built stood through the Provincial period, and was replaced in 1814 by the structure which the present generation remember as upon the spot before 1868. It is not explained why the site was called "Church Green" before it was contemplated to use it for church purposes. (Sewall Papers, iii., 61.)

LOTS 28 TO 40, NORTH SIDE OF SUMMER STREET FROM HIGH STREET TO HAWLEY STREET, INCLUDING INTERIOR LOTS TOWARD MILK STREET.

F. 28. Benjamin Gillam. [House and lot, with W. Deming west and north, R. Turner's pasture east, and the lane south-east. This was the north corner of Summer and High streets. — W.H.W.] Gillam's inventory, in 1670, speaks of his estate on the shore as comprising a dwelling-house, shed, and wash-house, valued at £360. It includes also part of a ship on the stocks, £398, — probably building at this point. (See his family connections in N. E. Hist. and Geneal. Reg., July, 1865, p. 254.) The present High street is called in 1642 the highway, already begun from widow Tuthill's windmill to the Fort, twenty foot broad.

F. 29. Robert Turner's pasture ; sold six acres in 1652 to Richard Fairbanks. Long Lane (Federal Street) was later cut through the westerly part of this lot, and upon it the meeting-house was built in 1744, in which Channing subsequently ministered.

F. 30. William Deming. [House and lot, with the lane south-east, B. Gillam east, M. Engles west, and Capt. Keayne north. — W.H.W.]

F. 31. Captain Robert Keayne, garden. This lot fell to Keayne's grand-daughter Anne and her husband, Captain Nicholas Paige, and from them passed to Daniel Johonnot in 1719, then bounding east, on Long Lane, while on its easterly bounds stood Mr. Johonnot's distillery and store-houses. In 1793 it was sold to the trustees of the Boston Theatre ; and on one part of it, separated from the theatre lot by Franklin street, the Catholics, in 1803, erected their first church. (N. E. Hist. and Geneal. Reg., Oct. 1852, p. 358.)

[This great lot is his lot No. 2, called a garden, with John Spoore east, W. Pell and R. Rice north, no other bounds. — W.H.W.]

F. 32. Robert Scott. [Apparently his lot No. 2, with Capt. Robert Keayne east, T. Oliver west, John Webb north, though this last is not clear. — W.H.W.]

F. 33. Maudit Engles. [House and lot, with the Mill street south, Mr. Scott north, W. Deming east, and B. Negoos west. — W.H.W.]

F. 34. Benjamin Negoos. [House and lot, with Mill street south, Mr. Oliver north, M. Engles east, G. Waite west. — W.H.W.]

F. 35. Gamaliel Waite. [House and lot, with the Mill street south, T. Oliver north, B. Negoos east, J. Palmer west. — W.H.W.]

F. 36. Thomas Oliver. [His lot No. 3, a garden, with Robert Scott east and west, J. Penn and J. Kenrick north, no south bound, but Negoos and Waite were south by their lines. — W.H.W.]

F. 37. Robert Scott. [His lot No. 4, a garden, with W. Hudson, Sr., west, N. Parker and J. Penn north, Jacob Leager east, and Edward Bates south. These last two bounds are hard to explain. — W.H.W.]

F. 38. John Palmer, Sr. [House and garden, with the Mill street south, G. Waite east, R. Scott and Wm. Hudson, Jr., north, A. Richardson west. — W.H.W.] Not far from this spot stood, in the provincial days, the elegant mansion of the younger Sir William Pepperrell, which was sold under the confiscation act in 1779. (Sabine, American Loyalists, ii, 170.)

F. 39. Amos Richardson. [House and garden, with the street south, J. Palmer, Sr., east, W. Hudson and R. Scott north, and J.

Palmer, Jr., J. Marshall and R. Hogg west. — W.H.W.] James Stokes sold to George Bromer; he, in 1642, to Amos Richardson, a tailor. Here, in the next century, after Bishop's Alley (the modern Hawley street) was run through, on the upper corner of it stood the old Seven Star Inn, giving its name for a while to the street; and upon the same spot, in 1734, the first edifice of Trinity Church was erected, which stood till 1828. This land was bought for the church of William Speakman.

F. 40. William Hudson, Sr., garden. Sewall, in 1794, records the burial of a Quaker in what seems this lot, as the Quakers did not have till 1709 any cemetery of their own. At the time of the burial it was called Brightman's pasture and orchard. (Sewall Papers, ii., 112, and note.)

F. 41. George Griggs, house; allowed to sell in 1638, "for his redeeming out of their debts," to Mr. Tuttill of Ipswich, and Mr. Tuttill of Charlestown. In his will, in 1655, he spoke of himself as sick in body. It is printed in N. E. Hist. and Geneal. Reg., Oct., 1855, p. 343.

F. 42. William Blontaine. William Davies, lock and gunsmith; granted 1638; sold to William Blontaine in 1646. The portion of this lot next the pond lot, belonged, early in the provincial time, to Benjamin Church, the father of the Revolutionary traitor, who sold it, in 1742, to Robert Thompson; and he, in 1764, to John Rowe, who built upon it a mansion, afterwards the residence of Judge Prescott, and which is portrayed in George Ticknor's Life of William H. Prescott. In 1845 it passed, by purchase, to the Church of the Saviour, and the freestone structure was built upon it, which has been taken carefully down, and reconstructed on Newbury street. (Shurtleff, Description of Boston, 409.)

[As Davies' lot when sold to Blontaine had Blontaine south, and Waite, F. 45, Hollick, F. 44, and Bell, F. 43, had Blontaine south, evidently he owned two lots, one perhaps including the pond. — W.H.W.]

F. 43. Thomas Bell, house and garden. He died 1655, and his son Thomas conveyed it to John Maryon in 1668.

F. 44. Richard Hollick, Hollidge, or Hollinghead, house and land. In 1680 Hollick and his wife Ann, in their old age, sold the lot (reserving the use of the house for their lives) to Henry Alline and Robert Sanderson, deacons of the First Church; but not until 1808 did that church erect, on an inner part of this lot, their late meeting-house on Chauncy place. Gleaner said, in 1855, that this was probably the only lot in Boston held under a direct conveyance from the first possessor.

F. 45. Gamaliel Waite, garden. This lot was the site of the fine old mansion of the provincial time, which Leonard Vassall built, now marked by the building of C. F. Hovey & Co. Mr. T. C. Amory (N. E. Hist. and Geneal. Reg., Jan., 1871, p. 38; see also Jan., 1863, p. 59) has traced the descent of the property, and described the mansion. For the Vassall family, see N. E. Hist. and Geneal. Reg., Jan., 1863, and Heraldic Journal, ii., 17. Vassall bought it in 1727 of Simeon Stoddard; and after his death, in 1737, it passed by sale to Thomas Hubbard, who lived in the house till his death, in 1773. He had been Treasurer of Harvard College, and his portrait by Copley now hangs in Memorial Hall.

LOTS 46 AND 47, NEXT TO KINGSTON STREET EAST.

F. 46. Richard Woodhouse. [House and lot, with T. Foster east, J. Vyall west, G. Griggs north, and the Cove south. — W. H.W.]

F. 47. John Viall, vintner; conveyed by him and his wife Mary, about 1644, to William Costin, carpenter; he to Edward Cowell, "cordwinder"; and he and his wife Sarah in 1671, to Rev. James Allen, of the First Church, who was reputed to be "very rich," and, perhaps, having a speculative turn, he sold it the next year.

[The description is, house and garden of half an acre, with R. Woodhouse east, G. Griggs north, the marsh and Cove south, and the highway west. This highway was afterwards Short street, now Kingston street. — W.H.W.]

F. 48. The Pond, "the town's watering-place." This pond had become so much of a nuisance in the provincial days, that in 1739 the question of filling it up was mooted, and in 1753 the lot containing it was sold by the town to David Wheeler, then containing about one-ninth of an acre. He died in 1770, and his wife, who held it, died in 1773.

[Pond street became Bedford street in 1820. — W.H.W.]

LOTS 49 TO 63, ON THE EAST SIDE OF WASHINGTON STREET, FROM MILK STREET TO BEDFORD STREET.

F. 49. Edward Fletcher, house; sold the northern part in 1646 to William Hailstone, a tailor, from Taunton; he to Richard Lippincott, barber. It was seemingly on this lot that Daniel Johnson, the Huguenot distiller, dwelt in his latter years. (N. E. Hist. and Geneal. Reg., October, 1852, p. 359.)

F. 50. Richard Waite, tailor, house and garden. An account of him and his family is given in N. E. Hist. and Geneal. Reg., 1877, p. 422.

F. 51. Charity White. [House and small yard, with Francis East south and east, R. Waite north, the street west. — W.H.W.]

F. 52. Francis East. [House and garden, with the street east (error for west), Charity White and Richard Waite north, W. Hudson east, N. Eaton south. — W.H.W.]

F. 53. Nathaniel Eaton. [House and garden, with F. East north, W. Hudson, Sr., east, the street west, and R. Hogg south. — W.H.W.]

F. 54. Richard Hogg. [House and garden, with A. Richardson and W. Hudson east, N. Eaton north, the street west, and J.

Marshall south. — W.H.W.] Richard Hogg sold in 1645 to John Lake, and he to Thomas Wiborne in 1648, whose will, 1656, is in N. E. Hist. and Geneal. Reg., July, 1852, p. 289.

F. 55. John Marshall. [House and garden, with the street west, A. Richardson east, R. Hogg north, N. Woodward, Sr., south. — W.H.W.]

F. 56. Nathaniel Woodward, the elder. [House and garden, with the Mill lane south, the high street west, J. Marshall north, J. Palmer, Jr., east. This was, of course, the north-east corner of Summer and Washington streets. — W.H.W.]

F. 57. John Palmer, Jr. [House and yard, with the Mill street south, J. Marshall north, N. Woodward, Sr., west, and A. Richardson east. — W.H.W.]

F. 58. Elizabeth Purton, a widow as early as 1633, whose house, in 1651, seems to have been leased by Robert Morse to James Oliver. She made her mark to her will, dated 1650, which is printed in the N. E. Hist. and Geneal. Reg., July, 1853, p. 233. On this site, in the next century, Thomas English lived in a sightly mansion-house. [Her lot is not in the Book, but is named, in the next lot, F. 59. — W.H.W.]

F. 59. Job Judkins. [House and garden, with the street west, Elizabeth Purton north, R. Hull south, and G. Waite east. — W.H.W.]

F. 60. Robert Hull, the blacksmith, house and garden. His will is in N. E. Hist. and Geneal. Reg., Oct., 1861, p. 322. It was at this point that the printing-office stood, in 1704, where the first Boston newspaper, the News-Letter, was printed. [It was here, apparently, that Samuel Sewall, who married John Hull's only child (grand-daughter of Robert), lived for many years, and wrote many pages of his diary. — W.H.W.]

F. 61. John Hurd, tailor, house and garden; mortgaged to Governor Dudley for £23 in 1649. It was granted to Hurd by John Leverett, in consideration of a garden granted Leverett, in the New Field. For Hurd's descendants, see N. E. Hist. and Geneal. Reg., April, 1865, p. 123.

F. 62. William Blontaine. [House and garden, with the street west, the watering-place west, J. Hurd north, and T. Wheeler south. — W.H.W.]

F. 63. Thomas Wheeler. [House and garden, with the High street west, the lane south, the watering-place east, and W. Blontaine north. This was the north-east corner of Bedford and Washington streets. Wheeler's will, of 1654, is in N. E. Hist. and Geneal. Reg., July, 1851, p. 305. His descendants seemed to have remained here, and Wheeler's Pond is mentioned several times in Sewall's Diary. See ante, F. 48. — W.H.W.]

LOTS 64 TO 73, WEST SIDE OF WASHINGTON STREET, FROM SCHOOL STREET TO WEST STREET.

F. 64. Atherton Hough, house and garden. It was well up School-street lot that the little French church was built, about 1714. They had bought the lot of James Meers, latter, ten years earlier. Next door to them, in 1747, Richard Cranch, card-maker, had his shop, — the father of Judge Cranch.

F. 65. Francis Lyle, house and garden. Walter Blackborne, had his lot, which Elizabeth (his widow?) sold, in 1641, to Francis Lyle, the barber, who united the service of a surgeon, after the fashion of his day, and in this capacity served later in the Parliamentary army in England. Henry Bridgham owned part of the lot, which he sold, in 1648, to Richard Tapping and John Spoore.

F. 66. Thomas Millard, house and garden. After Millard's death this estate passed to Colonel Samuel Shrimpton, in 1672, who sold it, in 1676, to Peter Sergeant, who built upon the lot the famous house, later to be known as the "Province House," when it was bought, in 1713, to be made the royal governor's official residence. The Indian, which was perched upon the top of the cupola, was the handiwork of Deacon Shem Drowne, the same who made the grasshopper vane of Faneuil Hall. The further history of the estate is traced in Shurtleff's Description of Boston, 596.

F. 67. Thomas Grubb. [House and garden, with T. Millard north, A. Perry west, the High street east, and W. Aspinwall south. — W.H.W.]

F. 68. William Aspinwall. [House and garden, with Richard — and Thomas Grubb north, Richard Cooke and Ephraim Pope south, the High street east, the Common west. The blank after Richard is evidently Fairbanks. — W.H.W.] Winsor says that this lot was "about on the line of Bromfield street, Richard Fairbanks' garden; later owned by William Davis the apothecary. Fairbanks, however, retained a lot in the rear of those on School street. William Aspinwall owned at one time from street to street, and he sold house, garden, orchard, and close, in 1652, to his son-in-law, John Angier, then making two acres. Another house and out-buildings he sold, in 1652, to Sampson Shoare; and he to Theodore Atkinson, who had formerly been a servant to John Newgate, the latter. Atkinson sold to Edward Rawson, the Colonial Secretary. The street now known as Bromfield street was long called Rawson's lane, but became later known as Bromfield's lane, after a distinguished merchant of the provincial period, — Edward Bromfield, — who lived on the southerly side, about half-way up, where later the Bromfield House stood. (This site was afterwards occupied by the Indian Queen Tavern.) Mr. Bromfield had settled in Boston in 1675, and died in 1734. His family is traced in N. E. Hist. and Geneal. Reg., October, 1871, p. 330."

F. 69. Ephraim Pope. [House and garden, with the High street east, R. Cooke west, W. Aspinwall north, and E. Dennis south. — W.H.W.]

F. 70. Edmund Dennis. [House and garden, with E. Pope north, the street east, R. Cooke and D. Maud west, and E. Jacklin south. — W.H.W.]

F. 71. Edmund Jacklin, a glazier, house and garden; sold, in 1646, to Nicholas Busbie, a worsted weaver. His will, 1657 (N. E. Hist. and Geneal. Reg., July, 1854, p. 279), mentions his new dwelling-house, with garden, which he gives to his wife, and after her to his son Abraham. He divided his books, — “phisicke bookes” to his son John, and “bookes of divinity or history” to Abraham.

F. 72. William Townsend. [House and garden, with the street east, D. Maud west, E. Jacklin north, and Jane Parker south. — W.H.W.]

F. 73. Jane, widow of Richard Parker, house and garden; and, intending to marry, she deeded it, in 1646, to her children, Margaret, John, Thomas, and Noah. [Her lot bounds with the street east and south; it was therefore the north-west corner lot of Washington and Winter streets. — W.H.W.]

LOTS 74 TO 82, ALONG TREMONT STREET FROM WINTER STREET TO SCHOOL STREET, AND DOWN SCHOOL STREET TO THE CORNER LOT.

F. 74. Richard Sherman. Granted to Richard Sherman’s wife in 1637, when Stephen Kinsley had a house-plot near by; and Sherman in 1647 sold a half acre to Francis Smith, who the same year deeded two acres, including land bought of Edmund Jacklin. This corner was later owned by Captain Edward Wyllys, and was bought of his heirs by Colonel Vetch in 1712, who in 1713–14 sold it to Captain Thomas Steel. (Sewall Papers, iii., 10.) It was later owned by Thomas Oxnard, the progenitor of the family of that name; and at his death, in 1754, it was valued at £1,200. (N. E. Hist. and Geneal. Reg., 1872, p. 4.) [It does not seem to be entered as Sherman’s possession in the Book. — W.H.W.]

F. 75. Daniel Maud the school-master; granted in 1637; sold to Edmund Jacklin in 1643. Here at a later day was the shop of the well-known London coach-maker, Major Adino Paddock, — the same who planted, about 1762, before the Granary burial-ground, the elms which not long since were cut down. The name of the burial-ground was derived from the public granary, which, in 1737, was built on the opposite side of the street where Park-street Church now stands. The keeper of this granary was for a long time Francis Willoughby. This part of Tremont street was called Long Acre in the provincial times. On a part of this lot, too, was built the manufacturing house which formed the east corner of what is now Hamilton place, and was erected by the Province to encourage spinning and kindred occupations. It disappeared in 1806. [This lot does not appear in the Book. Lamb makes three lots of it, I know not why. — W.H.W.]

F. 76. Richard Cooke, garden; sold to Edmund Jacklin, who, in 1647, sold to Francis Smith; he to Amos Richardson the same year; and later it was owned by Anthony Stoddard, the rich linen-draper.

F. 77. Richard Fairbanks. [Garden, bounded with W. Aspinwall south and east, the Common west, Z. Bosworth, J. Synderland, R. Cook, J. Lugg, and A. Perry east. — W.H.W.]

F. 78. Zaccheus Bosworth, house and garden, with barns, cow-house, orchard; sold in 1652 to Thomas Woodward.

Bosworth's will, 1655, is in N. E. Hist. and Geneal. Reg., October, 1851, p. 443. On this lot there was erected, early in the next century, the brick house which became the residence of Jacob Wendell, a wealthy merchant and prominent citizen of his day.

F. 79. John Synderland. [House and garden, with Z. Bosworth west, the street north, R. Fairbanks south, and R. Cooke east. — W.H.W.]

F. 80. Richard Cooke, house and garden. Here also lived his son, Dr. Elisha Cooke, a citizen who figured largely in the Inter-Charter period. It was in this house that Governor Burnet lived while the Province House was making ready.

F. 81. John Lugg. [House and garden, with the street north, R. Fairbanks south, R. Cooke west, and A. Perry east. — W.H.W.]

F. 82. Arthur Perry. [House, yard and garden, with the street north, R. Fairbanks south, J. Lugg west, and Mr. Haugh, F. Loyall (or Lyle), T. Grubb, and T. Millard east. — W.H.W.]

LOTS 83 TO 93, IN THE SQUARE ENCLOSED BY WINTER, WASHINGTON, WEST, AND TREMONT STREETS.

F. 83. Robert Blott. [House and garden, with the street east and north, Mr. Flint south, J. Leverett west. — W.H.W.]

F. 84. Mr. — Flint. [House and garden, with R. Blott north, J. Leverett west, the street east, and A. Harker south. — W.H.W.]

F. 85. Anthony Harker. [House and garden, with the street east, J. Johnson west, Mr. Flint north and south. — W.H.W.] Sold to Isaac Vergoose in 1659.

F. 86. Mr. Flint. [His second lot, a house and garden, with the street east, G. Burden west, A. Harker north, and T. Clarke south. — W.H.W.]

F. 87. Thomas Clarke. [House and garden, with the street east, G. Burden west, Mr. Flint north, and R. Mason south. — W.H.W.]

F. 88. Ralph Mason. [House and garden, with the street east, H. Webb west, T. Clarke north, R. Wing south. — W.H.W.] Ralph Mason, house and garden; mortgaged to Matthew Cradock, of London, in 1638, for £17; sold to Thomas Painter. Painter had liberty to sell a house to Ephraim Hunt, in 1650. Mason made his mark to his will in 1672.

F. 89. Robert Wing. [House and garden, with the street east and south, R. Mason north, H. Webb west. — W.H.W.] Robert Wing, house, "both old and new built;" sold in 1648 to Thomas Painter. He died in 1651. (See his will in N. E. Hist. and Geneal. Reg., January, 1850, p. 54.)

F. 90. Henry Webb. [His lot No. 3, a garden, with the lane south, G. Burden north, R. Wing and R. Mason east, the Cove west. This last is an evident error for the Common west. — W.H.W.]

F. 91. George Burden. [His lot No. 2, being a garden, near the Common, with H. Webb south, the Common west, T. Clarke east, and J. Johnson north. — W.H.W.]

F. 92. James Johnson, garden. These lots, on the line of the present Mason street, were granted, in 1638, to James Johnson, John Davis, George Burden, and Nathaniel Chappell, and were then called "gardens on the back side of the lots in y^e long street." They mark the sight of the mansion and grounds of James Swan of a later day, and, still later, the famous Washington Gardens of the early part of this century.

F. 93. John Leverett, who sold the south part in 1664 to one Wyard, and he, in 1666, to John Wampus, an Indian. (Gleaner Article No. 6.) [As I understand it, Lamb, on his map, has transposed these four lots, making them read from west to east, — Leverett, Johnson, Burden, Webb, instead of Webb, Burden, Johnson, Leverett. Winsor agrees with me. — W.H.W.]

LOTS 94, 95, AND 96, ON THE WEST SIDE OF WASHINGTON STREET, FROM WEST STREET TO BOYLSTON STREET.

F. 94. William Chamberlain, house and garden. This lot Thomas Oliver sold, in 1645, to Nicholas Shapley. Oliver's will is in N. E. Hist. and Geneal. Reg., October, 1854, p. 351. This lot seems to have been sold, in 1647, by Francis Smith, to William Chamberlin, assigned by Chamberlin to Smith again 5th, 11 month, 1648; and was later sold to Richard Wilson. Opposite the rear of this lot, on the Common, now the line of Mason street, the town built, in 1717 (it is shown on Bonner's map), the South Writing School. It is described then as "adjoining to Cornell's lot, over against Mr. Wainwright's."

F. 95. Richard Carter, house and garden. William Hudson, Jr., sold to Richard Carter, a carpenter, in 1639. This lot nearly corresponds to the site of the Lamb Tavern, which stood here before the middle of the last century. Drake says that Colonel Doty was the host in 1760. Adjoining it on the north was the Lion Tavern. [In the Book it is bounded by Mr. Oliver north, he being the owner before Chamberlain, as noted in F. 94. — W.H.W.]

F. 96. Jacob Leger. [House and garden, with the street east, the Common west, R. Carter north, Mr. Coleborne south. — W.H.W.]

F. d. [William Coleborne's lot was next south of Leger's, and was the corner of Boylston and Washington streets. It is described in Map C. — W.H.W.]

LOTS 97 TO 103, EAST SIDE OF WASHINGTON STREET, FROM BEDFORD STREET TO ESSEX STREET.

F. 97. Robert Woodward, house and garden; granted in 1637. Papers relating to his estate are in N. E. Hist. and Geneal. Reg., January, 1859, p. 10. Bedford street was laid out in 1644. [His lot has the High street west, the lane north, J. Leger south, T. Buttolph east. — W.H.W.]

F. 98. Jacob Leger. [His lot No. 2, a house and garden, with the street west, R. Woodward north, T. Buttolph east, and T. Fowle south. — W.H.W.]

F. 99. Thomas Fowle, house and garden. He removed to Braintree. In 1650, house and orchard sold by John Cuddington to William Holloway. [He had Leger north, Sinet south, Buttolph east. — W.H.W.]

F. 100. Walter Sinet. [House and garden, with the street west, T. Buttolph and M. Reading east, J. Leger north, and J. Odlin south. Possibly this should be T. Fowle north. — W.H.W.]

F. 101. John Odlin, house and garden, with the street west, M. Reading east, ——— Cole south, W. Sinet north. — W.H.W.]

F. 102. ——— Cole, house and garden; later owned by John Cuddington, John Bateman, and John Odlin, in 1650.

F. 103. Griffith Bowen, house and garden. Here, within the house-yard, stood the "Liberty Tree," which is said to have been planted in 1646, and became famous in the Stamp-Act times, and was cut down in spite by the Tories, in 1775.

F. 103*. [This lot is not placed on the map by an oversight. On Lamb's map it is marked as held by Miles Reading, but a part of it belongs to Thomas Buttolph, as shown by lots F. 97, 98, 99, and 100. It was Buttolph's Lot No. 2, being an acre and a half, first laid out for garden lots, with the highway south, a common lot east, J. Leger, W. Sinet, and the lane north, Mr. Fowle and R. Woodward west. As Miles Reading only occurs as an abuttor in F. 100 and 101, it is impossible to say how much he owned. But Buttolph should stand as the main owner here, his lot reaching to Bedford street. — W.H.W.]

LOTS 104 TO 108, ON THE SOUTH SIDE OF ESSEX STREET,
FROM WASHINGTON STREET EASTERLY.

F. 104. Garrett Bourne. [House and garden, with the street west and north, the marsh south, E. Rainsford east. — W.H.W.]

F. 105. Edward Rainsford. [House and garden, with the street north, the Cove south, G. Bourne west, D. Offley east. Rainsford's lane in 1708, from Essex street to Beach street, now part of Harrison avenue, was near this lot. — W.H.W.]

F. 106. David Offley. House and garden, with the street north, the Cove south, E. Rainsford west, the lane east. — W.H.W.]

F. 107. Owen Rowe. [House and garden, with the street north, the lane west, the Cove south, J. Pelton east. — W.H.W.]

F. 108. John Pelton. [House and lot, with the street north, the Cove south, O. Rowe west, the marsh east. — W.H.W.]

F. 109. [The Marsh, between Kingston street and the end of Essex street. Even on Bonner's map of 1722, after Essex street had been cut through to Kingston street, there is only one line of houses on Essex street, with a great open space behind it, and "Coal's Garden" making up nearly all of the southerly side of Bedford street. Exeter street was projected, in 1805, across this lot, which street became Rowe place in 1825, Rowe street in 1837, and Chauncy street (by absorption) in 1856. The later Rowe place, on the easterly side, ended in a vacant lot in the rear of Garcelon's stable and the Kingston-street houses. When built upon, a few years ago, it was said to be covered for the first time by buildings. — W.H.W.]

MAP G, OR No. 7.

MAP G, OR NO. 7.

LOTS EAST OF HANOVER STREET AND NORTH OF THE COVE AND MILL CREEK; NOS. 1 TO 10.

G. 1. Sampson Shore. [House and garden, with M. Chaffie north-east, John Hill south-west, the street north-west, the Cove south-east. — W.H.W.]

G. 2. John Hill. [His second lot being a small lot of quarter of an acre, with S. Shore north-east, J. Milom south-west, the street north-west, the Cove south-east. — W.H.W.]

G. 3. David Sellick. [By Book of Possessions, it seems that 14th, 7 mo., 1647, Sellick bought of Edward Wells a lot, with S. Shore north-east, J. Hill's garden north-west, J. Milom south-west, the Cove south-east. It must be here, though not on Lamb's map. — W.H.W.]

G. 4. John Mylom, cooper, house and garden; sold to John Phillips, biscuit-maker, in 1648. It was upon this lot that one of the oldest buildings in Boston, half way up Cross street, existed to our day. Phillips, who had come from Dorchester, became a deacon of the Second Church in 1650, added to his estate adjacent lands, and built the stone house; which, when it was torn down in 1864, was considered the oldest building in Boston. It has been described by Mr. Bynner, in Vol. I. of Memorial History of Boston. Phillips died in 1682. Shurtleff, Description of Boston, p. 667, has traced its history to our day. Phillips, before he died, sold the part of his lot next the water-side to Captain Christopher Clarke.

G. 5. William Werdall. [House and garden, with J. Milom south-west (error, evidently for south-east), J. Hill north-east, the street north-west, the highway south-west. This south-west highway was Cross street, but Milom's bound is on Valentine Hill; an example of how little precision is shown in these descriptions. — W.H.W.] Winsor writes of this lane, as follows: — "This lane was laid out in 1636, from the water-side 'up the balke or meare that goes up from the end of John Mylom's house, next William Aspinwall's ground, and to goe along to the Mylne Cove, a rod and a halfe broadere.' Mylom was allowed, in 1647, to wharf before the eastern end of it. At the beginning of the next century it was called Coney's Lane. Sewall Papers, ii., 211."

G. 6. Valentine Hill, according to Winsor, had five lots here, thus described: — "a. Valentine Hill. b. Valentine Hill; sold to Barnabas Fawer, in 1646, who was to maintain a cart-way by the wharf before his door, and whose will, 1654, is in N. E. Hist. and Geneal. Reg., July, 1851, p. 305. c. Valentine Hill; sold to James Mattock in 1646, whose will, 1666, is in N. E. Hist. and Geneal. Reg., Oct., 1861, p. 325. David Phippeny had a house and lot in this neighborhood. See his will in N. E. Hist. and Geneal. Reg., July, 1853, p. 233. [Phippeny's lot (Book, p. 31) bounded south-west on W. Tyng, and Tyng's lot no. 2 bounds on Phippeny. — W.H.W.] d. Valentine Hill; sold to Arthur Perry. e. Valentine Hill; sold to Richard Straine, in 1648; then passed to Paul Allistre, with a wharf in front; then to Robert Nanney, in 1650. His will, 1663, is printed in N. E. Hist. and Geneal. Reg., April, 1858, p. 155. Near the bridge over the creek, Hill sold, in 1651, a lot to William Aubrey, 'for the use of the undertakers of the iron works in New England.' A lane which later passed through this lot and the present North Centre street was called Paddy's Lane, from Captain William Paddy, a citizen of prominence, who lived upon it, and died in 1658. His will is in N. E. Hist. and Geneal. Reg., Oct., 1854, p. 355; also see 1877, p. 321."

G. 7. John Oliver. [House and garden, of about half an acre, with V. Hill north-east and south-east, the street north-west, John Pierce and John Knight south-west. — W.H.W.]

G. 8. John Knight.

G. 9. John Pierce. [No possessions recorded, but the existence of the lots is necessitated by G. 7 and G. 10. — W.H.W.]

G. 10. Thomas Marshall. [House and garden of about half an acre, with the marsh south-east, John Peirce or John Knight north-east, the street north-west and south-west. Also 8th, 6 mo. 1648, Marshall bought of John Milom, land near the water-mill with Milom south-east, 30 feet, Marshall south-west 76 feet, the Mill Creek north-east, 74 feet, the highway north-west 44 feet. From all which it appears that Marshall owned both sides of the Mill creek and cove up to the highway; but the exact boundaries are hard to trace. — W.H.W.]

Winsor adds: "Joshua Scottow was allowed, in 1651, to wharf at the north-east end of the mill bridge. He had bought the marsh at that time of James Nash, of Weymouth, to whom John Mylom had sold it."

Winsor places the following lots in this square with Union street west, and the Mill creek through its centre:—

a. John Mylom; sold to Thomas Marshall, 1648. b. John Mylom, h.; sold in part in 1650 to Robert Nash, the butcher. c. John Mylom; sold to Governor Leverett. d. Lewis Kidby, fisherman, 1639; granted house lot on the marsh next to John Lowe. e. John Lowe, upland, surrounded by marsh; called a wheelwright, when it was granted to him in 1636-37. f. Marsh held in commonage, part of which was granted in 1646 to John Mylom, who sold it to James Hawkins in 1648.

Thomas Marshall offered to the town in 1652 a highway to shorten the way to the bridge (G. 11), but withdrew his offer. The present Marshall street, however, would indicate that the short cut was eventually established.

G. 11. The bridge, the draw of which was changed from one to two leaves in 1653, and the bridge was rebuilt in 1659. The repairs on it are a matter of constant entry in the town records. In 1650 it was ordered that the spare land about the bridge should be wharfed by the neighbors for the common landing of property.

[Here also the] "old way" begun, which in 1649 was laid out, a rod broad, from the south side of the water mill, along the shore to the Mill Hill.

LOTS 12 TO 17, WEST OF HANOVER STREET.

G. 12. Thomas Hawkins. [A quarter of an acre towards Charlestown, with James Johnson south-west (see H. 1), the Cove north-west, John Button north-east, and the street south-east. See Book, p. 41. — W.H.W.]

G. 13. John Button. [Lamb places William Cox here, I know not why. This lot does not seem to be recorded in the Book. Perhaps it is a reminiscence of Buttolph's lot No. 5, where Cox means Copp. — W.H.W.]

G. 14. John Davies, house and garden; sold in 1645 to John Trotman, and his wife Katherine conveyed it same day to Thomas Hawkins, who at a later day kept here, on Hanover street, the Star Inn. (See Shurtleff, Description of Boston, p. 606.) He mortgaged the property to Governor Bradstreet in 1650. From Hawkins's house went "the old hie way over the little bridge [near 11] behind the watter mile to the ferry to Charlestown." One Watters obstructing this old way with a fence in 1652, he was ordered to remove it; but in 1650 Hawkins was allowed to fence in a part of it temporarily.

G. 15. Gabriel Fish. [House and yard, with John Davies south and west, V. Hill north, the street east. — W.H.W.]

G. 16. Valentine Hill; perhaps later John Kinrick's.

G. 17. This whole triangle is left without owners on Lamb's map. Winsor assigns as follows: —

a. Zaccheus Bosworth, l. hereabout. Also probably in this neighborhood, but not easily placed, the houses and gardens of Bartholomew Cheever, John Arnold, John Jackson, and a lot of Robert Hull, the blacksmith. [But these last two certainly were in the New field, i.e. the hill-side along from Beacon to Cambridge streets, and are so marked by Winsor in his Map F. More study is required for lot 17. — W.H.W.]

b. John Ruggles, 1637, had house-plot and garden "near the new mylne." If the same who was afterwards of Roxbury, his will, 1657, is printed in N. E. Hist. and Geneal. Reg., Oct., 1858, p. 343. Just north of this point, with its rear upon the cove, the Baptists built their first meeting-house in 1679, which was replaced by a larger one still, of wood, in 1771. Still further round the cove, on the site of the present Baldwin Place, the Second Baptist Church built their house in 1746, — a small structure which continued well into this century.

c. William Wilson, $2\frac{1}{2}$ a.

LOTS 18 TO 21, THE WEST SIDE OF THE COVE, EAST OF UNION STREET.

G. 18. John Lowe. [House and garden, with the marsh north and east; the cove south, and Mr. Bellingham west. — W.H.W.]

G. 19. Richard Bellingham's marsh, including what came to him under an order, 1644, granting him such of the town's marsh as was undisposed of, "for the continuance of peace and love, in consideration of a quiet resignation of all claim unto the wast before his house." The Governor sold this marsh in equal parts to Joshua Scottow and Christopher Lawson. Shurtleff, Description of Boston, ch. lvii., shows how in the southerly part of this marsh, near the corner of Merchants' Row and North Market street, stood for many years the well-known Triangular Warehouse.

G. 20. Henry Symons, house; sold to Christopher Lawson; and by him in 1645 to David Sellick, with wharf and lane before it; to Robert Nanney in 1646. This wharf was bought by John Shawe, the butcher. [Henry Symons, house and lot, with Mr. Bellingham north and east, John Hill west, the cove south. — W.H.W.]

G. 21. John Hill, house. Somewhere in this vicinity, in 1656, Thomas Savage built his new house, "between the drawbridge and the conduit." On the opposite side of the present North street from this lot, on an irregular piece of ground, partly reclaimed from the marsh, and a wooden building, which was consumed in the fire of 1679, to be followed next year by the rough-cast structure, which, standing to our day, has been known as the "Old Feather-Store." Shurtleff, Description of Boston, p. 645, thinks the lot was originally a part of Symons's [lot], who dying in 1643, his widow Susannah married, about 1644, Isaac Walker, who conveyed it to their daughter Susannah, born 1646, who in 1668 married Mr. Thomas Stanbury, who built the old building, which was taken down in 1860. The subsequent history of the building is told by Shurtleff. [John Hill, house bounded with H. Symons east, Mr. Bellingham north, the street west, the Cove south. — W.H.W.]

LOTS 22 TO 27, BOUNDED BY UNION, ELM, AND HANOVER STREETS.

G. 22. James Everill, a shoemaker, house and large lot, embracing nearly the whole front on Hanover street, out of which he sold lots to various people. William Tyng acquired a part on Elm street; and along Hanover street, passing north, were the lots of Francis Dowse, Evan Thomas, a vintner (sold to James Bill), William Corser (sold to John Chamberlyn), Robert Porter, John Stevenson, and William Hayward. The corner lot on Hanover and Union streets passed to Henry Maudesley about 1653; and Shurtleff, Desc. of Boston, p. 628, has traced the title down, until it became the famous "Blue Ball," the home of Franklin's father. It is now cut off by the extension of Washington street.

G. 23. Edmund Dennis. [Apparently his lot No. 3. A small parcel with James Everil east, the lane and street south-west and north-west. Winsor agrees in this location, but it is not on Lamb's map. — W.H.W.]

G. 24. John Button. [Three houses and a garden and yard, in all about an acre, with J. Everill north-west, the lane south-west, the Cove south-east, N. Willis north-east. — W.H.W.] Winsor writes, "There was in later years some controversy as to whether the land opposite this lot and the town docks was public property. See depositions in N. E. Hist. and Geneal. Reg., Jan., 1864, p. 68." Winsor, in Map B, puts these lots on the east side of the Mill Creek, instead of the east side of the lane, now Elm street. He also puts Willis and Painter with Hanover street west. Herein he differs from Lamb, whose localities agree better with the Book. — W.H.W.]

G. 25. Nicholas Willis. [House and garden, with J. Everill westerly, J. Button south-west, the street east, T. Painter northerly. — W.H.W.]

G. 26. Thomas Painter. [House and garden, with N. Willis south-west, the street east, Geo. Barrell north. — W.H.W.]

G. 27. George Barrell. [House and lot not half an acre, with J. Everill north, T. Painter south, N. Willis west, the street east. — W.H.W.]

LOTS 28 TO 52, BOUNDED BY ELM, WASHINGTON, COURT, AND HANOVER STREETS.

G. 28. Thomas Makepeace. This was perhaps the house John Underhill surrendered in 1639 to Thomas Makepeace of Dorchester, whose will, 1666, is in N. E. Hist. and Geneal. Reg., October, 1861, p. 323. It was on the north-east corner that a well-known Boston merchant, William Tailer, lived, — the same who committed suicide July 12, 1682. (N. E. Hist. and Geneal. Reg., vii., 56.) His wife was Rebecca, a daughter of Israel Stoughton of Dorchester, and it was with her in this house that Andros is supposed to have taken up his abode when he came to Boston in 1686. The son, William Tailer of Dorchester, became Lieut.-Governor, and rented this house to Edward Lyde, who in 1701–2 bought the property. (Sewall Papers, i., 163, 202; N. E. Hist. and Geneal. Reg., July, 1863, p. 239; July, 1864, p. 289.)

G. 29. Anne, widow of George Hunne. [House and garden with George — on the east and south, T. Makepeace west, the lane north. The "George —" is evidently George Bates. — W.H.W.]

G. 30. George Bates. [House and garden, T. Makepeace west, A. Hunne north, G. Burden east, W. Wilson south. — W.H.W.]

George Bates in the rear of Anne Hunne. The will of John Endicott (N. E. Hist. and Geneal. Reg., October, 1862, p. 333), leaving his property to his wife Elizabeth, daughter of Jeremy Houtchin (he had no children), mentions his house as "joyning to George Bates on the west."

G. 31. George Burden.

G. 32. Francis Dowse.

G. 33. Jeremy Houchin. [Of these lots only one is recorded. Dowse has a house and yard, with the lane east, W. Tyng west, G. Burden north, J. Houchin south. See Tyng's lot, G. 40. — W.H.W.]

G. 34. Sarah Knight. [House and garden, with J. Houchin north, the lane east, W. Tyng west, and S. Greames south. — W.H.W.]

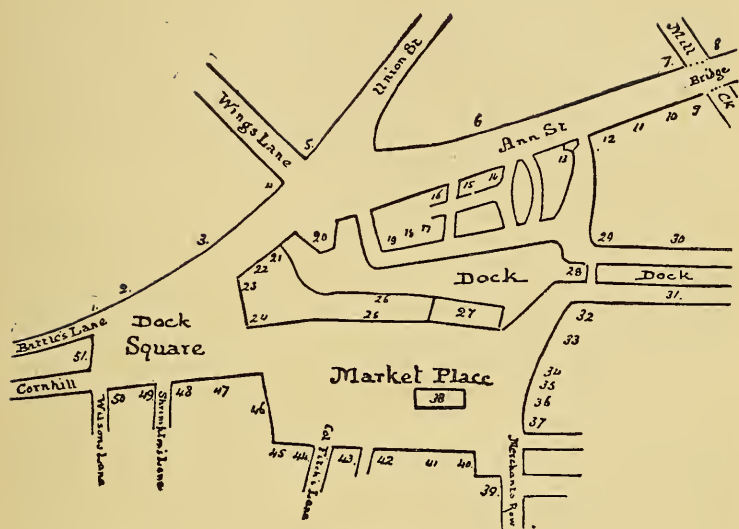

G. 35. Samuel Greames. [House and yard, with Sarah Knight north-west, the lane north-east, W. Hudson, Jr., south-east, Wm. Tyng south-west. — W.H.W.]

G. 36. William Hudson, jr. [Evidently the corner of Hudson's lane, now Elm street, as he has Greames and the lane north-east and the street south-east. — W.H.W.]

This was known as the "Castle Tavern," and Hudson and his wife Anne conveyed it in 1674 to John Wing, who in 1687 "set a room in his house for a man to show tricks in;" and Sewall records, amusingly, how he went to labor with Wing and convince him of its sinfulness, ending his account: "Sung the 90th Ps. from the 12th v. to the end. Broke up." (Sewall Papers, i, 196.) In 1694 it is called the "George Tavern." Mr. John T. Hassam traces the subsequent history of this estate in N. E. Hist. and Geneal. Reg., 1879, p. 400.

G. 37. John Glover, house. By will, 1653, he left half his house nearest Mr. Webb's to his wife, and half to his son Habakkuk, with half his tanyard adjacent; also to this son half his house next Goodman Hudson's. Another son, John, who had graduated at Harvard in 1651, continued to live with the mother. Becoming a merchant, he moved to Swansea; and, returning to Boston in 1690, lived and died (1696) on Summer street, and lies buried in the Granary Burying-ground. (Glover Memorials, p. 149; Sibley, Harvard Graduates, p. 297.)

G. 38. George Burden, a shoemaker, house. There was a wharf opposite his house in 1641, where he had permission to place a vessel at the head of it in which to water his leather. Burden's will is in N. E. Hist. and Geneal. Reg., July, 1854, p. 278; and see 1880, p. 44, for a note of the descent of this lot. A way round the north side of the Cove from this lot to John Lowe's was laid out definitely in 1642. When the town, in 1649, sold the reversion till 1726 of the dock to James Everill, on his paying an annual £6 16s. 10d. "to the school's use," it was then ordered that all the land at the head of the Cove "round about by John Glover's, George Burden's, Hugh Gunnison's, Captain William Ting's, William Franklin's, Robert Nash's, and eight foot to the eastward of it is highway; as alsoe from the eastward six of the eight foot, and round about bye the corner of Edward Bendall's brick howse, and so by Samuel Cole's howse, as alsoe to Edward Ting's wharfe, shall goe a high way of twente ye foote in breadth." This head of the dock was the "common landing place" as early as 1634, when there was a bridge or pier here.

DOCK SQUARE, ABOUT 1732.

This sketch is based on a plan preserved in the City Hall, and of which a copy made by the late W. G. Brooks is in the Cabinet of the Historical Society. The figures stand for the following names and sites: 1, Hutchinson; 2, Billings; 3, Randall; 4, Harvard; 5, Hannas; 6, Checkley; 7, Jackson; 8, Rand; 9, Rawson; 10, Right; 11, W. Coffin; 12, Millar; 13, J. Tyler; 14, Tyler; 15, Hancock; 16, Boyce; 17, Pemberton; 18, Brooks; 19, Pitts; 20, Watch-house; 21, Jackson; 22, Abbott; 23, Bromfield; 24, Hubbard; 25, Small shops; 26, Billings; 27, Platform, Fish shop; 28, Swing Bridge; 29, Borland; 30, Bridgman Hall and Warehouse; 31, Woodmancy's wharf; 32, Fayerweather; 33, Colman; 34, Hutchinson; 35, Cushing; 36, Bronsdon; 37, Jeffery; 38, Palmer's Warehouse; 39, Gill and Sewall; 40, Green; 41, Allen; 42, Bromfield; 43, Noyes; 44, Boylston; 45, Bailey; 46, Sun Tavern; 47, Borman and Gibbs; 48, Maverick; 49, Edes; 50, Blake; 51, Colson.

G. 39. Hugh Gunnison, vintner. He later removed to Kittery. In 1650 Gunnison's, or Gullison's, house is called The King's Arms, and the estate included a brew-house, barns, stables, etc.; and in 1651 he and his wife Sarah conveyed it, according to an inventory printed in N. E. Hist. and Geneal. Reg., 1880, p. 42, to Henry Shrimpton and others; and according to Mr. Hassam, when Shrimpton made his will, in 1666, he called it the "States Arms;" and when Eliakim Hutchinson became Shrimpton's son-in-law, two years later, it is described as "facing to the head of the dock, and heretofore called the King's Armes." The estate passed next, 1715-19, to William Hutchinson, the son, and in 1721 to Eliakim Hutchinson, the grandson, a loyalist.

G. 40. Captain William Tyng, house, garden, close, great yard, and little yard before the hall window. His inventory is in N. E. Hist. and Geneal. Reg., 1876, p. 432. A part of this lot, after Captain Tyng's death, Jan. 18, 1652-53, fell to Elizabeth, his daughter, wife of Thomas Brattle, who died May 10, 1684, when it fell to Thomas Brattle. (Sewall Papers, i., 202.) Subsequently, in 1694, a part of the estate passed to Mr. Mumford, who afterwards conveyed it to the Quakers for a meeting-house. (Shurtleff, Desc. of Boston, p. 229.) On the rear of this lot, after passages had been opened across it, the first wooden house of the "Manifesto Church" was erected in 1699, and stood through the provincial period. A part of this lot was conveyed by Brattle to John Wing, and by him to Eliakim Hutchinson. (See N. E. Hist. and Geneal. Reg., 1880, p. 43.)

G. 41. Richard Bellingham, the residence of the Governor probably before he built the house on Cotton Hill. In 1644 he compounded with the town by accepting a piece of marsh on the other side of the dock in lieu of the waste ground before this house. Hereabout, fronting on Dock Square, stood a landmark known in the early part of the next century as Colson's Stone House.

G. 42. Christopher Stanley. (See p. 43 of Book.)

William Balston sold the lot August, 1638, when it consisted of house, yard, garden, and close "back side of Mr. Coddington," to Thomas Cornell or Cornwell; who sold to Edward Tyng, 1643; and he to Christopher Stanley. This one of the three Balston settlers left no male issue. Whitmore, Sewall Papers, ii., 130, 186, corrects Savage in an account of these Balston settlers.

G. 43. Thomas Buttolph, house and garden. Buttolph's will is in N. E. Hist. and Geneal. Reg., April, 1862, p. 159, leaving to his wife Anna his house, yards, stable, barn, and other housing, and after her to his son Thomas. This he calls his "new house." This old house he leaves to Thomas till his mother dies; then to his son John.

G. 44. Valentine Hill, house, sold to Robert Turner, shoemaker, in 1644. Turner's will is dated 1651. (See N. E. Hist. and Geneal. Reg., July, 1850, p. 285.)

G. 45. Mr. Henry Dunster. [House and yard, with the street east and south, T. Hawkins west and north. Evidently the north corner of Court and Washington streets. — W.H.W.]

G. 46. Thomas Hawkins. [House and yard, with V. Hill north, the street east, J. Biggs west, H. Dunster and Centry-hill street south. — W.H.W.]

G. 47. John Biggs. [House and yard, with Bellingham north, Centry-hill street south, T. Hawkins, V. Hill, T. Buttolph and C. Stanley east, James Brown west. — W.H.W.]

G. 48. James Brown, house. His will, 1651, is in N. E. Hist. and Geneal. Reg., Oct., 1853, p. 335. Hereabout, on the lower corner of the present Franklin avenue, Samuel Kneeland, in 1718, began a printing office, and here printed some of the early Boston newspapers. Later it became the stand of James Franklin; and here his brother Benjamin assisted him on the New England Courant, and in 1723 became under a pretence its proprietor. In 1769 it was the office of Edes and Gill, prominent printers of their day.

G. 49. Alexander Beck. [House and garden, with the street south, Mr. Bellingham north, J. Brown east, J. Scottow west. — W.H.W.]

G. 50. Joshua Scottow. [House and garden of about half an acre, Mr. Bellingham north-east, A. Beck south-east, Sudbury street south-west, B. Thwing north-west. Evidently Centry Hill street ended and Sudbury street began at about this point; but this point is about the corner of Cornhill, and our Sudbury street is now contracted to the part north of Hanover street. — W.H.W.]

G. 51. Benjamin Thwing, house. It was about at this point that Smibert the painter lived in 1743, and Brattle street was subsequently cut off in part from the estate of the artist. [Benjamin Thwing is called "my man," by Ralph Hudson, in his will of 24 Sept., 1638.—W.H.W.]

G. 52. William Wilson, joiner, with considerable back land. Soon after the middle of the next century the building known to our own day as Concert Hall was built. The estate then extended to Hanover street. Gilbert and Louis Deblois, braizers, conveyed it in 1754 to Stephen Deblois, who in 1769 sold it to William Turner; and later it passed to the Amory family. (Drake's Boston, p. 641.)

- a. Edward Bendall
- b. John Cotton
- c. Daniel Maud
- d. Richard Bellingham

These letters show the front lines of the above estates on Tremont street, more fully figured on Map H, or Map No. 8.

LOTS 53 TO 63, BOUNDED BY COURT, WASHINGTON, SCHOOL, AND TREMONT STREETS.

G. 53. Croychley for Dinely heirs. On this lot, in the flourishing days of Governor Shirley, lived one of the best known Boston merchants, John Wendell; and under his roof, in 1759, George Cradock had his office as Royal Collector of Customs. For the Cradock connections see N. E. Hist. and Geneal. Reg., Jan., 1854, p. 28; April, 1855, p. 123.

G. 54. Richard Tapping, house; sold to Nathaniel Williams; again in 1649 to Richard Critchley or Croychley, who married the widow of William Dinely, the barber-surgeon, whose sad fate, in 1639, is described in Mr. Scudder's chapter, in Vol. I. of the Memorial History, and who left to his widow and children the next lot. A son of Dinely, named John, survived him; and the infant with the name of sad remembrance, who came after the father's death, — Fathergone Dinely, — administered on his elder brother's estate. Between 53 and 54, on the lot now covered by the Adams Express Company's building, lived Colonel Daniel Henehman, the bookseller and bookbinder, with whom Thomas Hancock served his time, and whose daughter Hancock married. She, Lydia Hancock, gave the estate to the Brattle-street Church in 1765, for a parsonage. James Otis at one time lived in the house.

G. 55. The Prison lot where the Court-House now stands.

G. 56. Richard Parker. [House, barn, and yard, with the prison-yard west, the market-place east, J. Leverett north, R. Truesdale and the meeting-house south. — W.H.W.]

G. 57. John Leverett. [House and yard, with R. Parker south and west, the street north and east. This lot is where Sears' Building stands. — W.H.W.]

G. 58. Richard Truesdale, house and garden. Sargent, Dealings with the Dead, ii., 567, says that Benjamin Faneuil, brother of Peter, had his town residence on this lot at a later day. [Valentine Hill was on his south. — W.H.W.]

G. 59. Valentine Hill. [House and garden, with the street east, the meeting-house and R. Truesdale north, the prison-garden west, R. Sedgwick south. — W.H.W.] Valentine Hill sold in 1645 to William Davies. Hill moved, after 1650, to Dover, New Hampshire. It was probably from a building on this lot that the first number of the Boston News-Letter was published, April 24, 1704.

G. 60. The Meeting-house. [The first one was built on the west side of State street, where Brazier's Building is. In 1640 it was given up, and this site chosen. In 1809, it was sold to Benjamin Joy, who built Joy's Building; now torn down to give place to Rogers' Building. — W.H.W.]

G. 61. Major-General Robert Sedgwick, house and garden, who had lived earlier in Charlestown. It was in a court which, in the provincial period, extending through this lot toward the present Court square, that the fire of 1711 began, breaking out, as the News-Letter of the day said, "in an old tenement, within a back-yard in Cornhill [Washington street], near the first meeting-house;" and Sewall says it "broke out in a little house belonging to Captain Ephraim Savage, by reason of the drunkenness of — Moss," whom the News-Letter characterizes as a "poor Scottish woman;" and Drake gives the name of Mary Morse. (Sewall Papers, ii., 323.) There are two petitions on file in the City Clerk's office giving the names of some of the principal sufferers by this fire.

G. 62. Edward Hutchinson, house and garden. After his removal to Rhode Island, his son was permitted to sell it to his uncle, Richard Hutchinson, of London, who never occupied it. The "Old Corner Book-Store," erected in 1712, now occupies a portion of the lot; and the descent of the property has been traced in Shurtleff's Description of Boston, p. 671.

G. 63. Henry Messenger, joiner, house and garden. This is the lot on which now stands the building of the Massachusetts Historical Society, and, in part, the Boston Museum. His will is dated March 15, 1672, and he died in 1681, his wife Sarah inheriting the estate; and she at her death, 1697, gave the half next the burial-place to her son Thomas, and the other half to her son Simeon. An account of his descendants is in N. E. Hist. and Geneal. Reg., Oct., 1862, p. 309; and is given more at length in the Genealogy of the Messenger Family, by George W. Messenger, Albany, 1863. This Messenger lot, separating the town property on School from that on Court street, was in part later acquired by the town. (Gleaner Articles, No. 3.) [His south bound was Scottow and the burying-ground.—W.H.W.]

[Note.—Thomas Scottow's lot on School street, the only one between Hutchinson's corner and the King's chapel burying-ground, is noted on Map F, or No. 6, as the front is on that plan.—W.H.W.]

THE MARKET PLACE, NOW THE OLD STATE-HOUSE LOT.

G. 64. The open market-stead, where later, in 1657–58, the "Town and State House" was built,—the colony excusing the town from current payment of rates in consideration. (June 10, 1658, Mass. Archives, "Towns," i. 108.) The money had largely been received under Robert Keayne's will. The colony and the county subsequently shared with Boston the expense of repairs, the building being of wood. It was destroyed in the fire of 1711, and the next year a building of brick took its place. All but the walls of this building were burned in 1747 (Historical Magazine, Sept., 1868), and many of the original papers, which we might expect to find now at the State House, were probably then consumed. (Sewall Papers, i., 161.) [It was used as the State House until the new State House, on Beacon Hill, was finished and occupied, January 11th, 1798. For thirty years following it was given up to business purposes. In 1830 the City took possession, and it became the City Hall. In 1840, the City having changed its offices to the site on School street, it was again let for business. After much hard usage, the City Council, in 1881, appropriated $35,000 to restore the exterior and the legislative halls, leaving only the lower floor and basement for business purposes.—W.H.W.]

LOTS 65 TO 83. BEGINNING AT THE WATER'S EDGE, ON THE SOUTH SIDE OF STATE STREET, THENCE THROUGH DEVONSHIRE STREET TO WATER STREET (BOTH SIDES), THENCE ON WASHINGTON STREET TO STATE STREET.

G. 65. William Hudson, Sr., house and garden. He was allowed to keep an ordinary in 1640; and in 1643 a "harbor for boats" was ordered to be made in the marsh near by. This lot is at the corner of Kilby street. After Hudson's death it passed to Francis Smith, and later to Governor Leverett. Here in the provincial days stood the Bunch of Grapes Tavern, with a sign of three bunches of the fruit; and Drake says two of the bunches now hang over the door of a store in North Market street. The same writer gives its landlords as Francis Holmes (1712), William Coffin (1731), Joshua Barker (1749), Colonel Joseph Ingersoll (1764). Samuel Holbrook seems to have owned part of it, at least, before 1724, when his widow sold a moiety to Thomas Waite. (N. E. Hist. and Geneal. Reg., 1877, p. 423.) Goelet's Journal (N. E. Hist. and Geneal. Reg., 1870, p. 53) mentions Weatherhead as the keeper in 1750, and says it is "noted for the best punch house in Boston, and resorted by most the gent^l merch^{ts} and masters vessels." This passage by the shore was known as Mackerel Lane, and remained very narrow until the great fire of 1760 swept everything away, when it was widened and named Kilby street, in compliment to Christopher Kilby, a wealthy Boston merchant, who lived long in London as agent for the town and colony, and was now living in New York. He was very liberal to the sufferers by the fire. The committee for laying out the widened street were Andrew Oliver, Thomas Hancock, Joshua Henshaw, and John Scollay; and their report is on file.

G. 66. William Davies, S^r. [House, with the street north, W. Hudson, Sr., east, Mr. Winthrop south and west. — W.H.W.]

G. 67. John Winthrop. [His possessions are not in the Book; perhaps they were recorded on the missing first two pages. This lot is not his house-lot, which was on Washington street, opposite the foot of School street. — W.H.W.]

G. 68. Elder Thomas Leverett, house and garden. When he died, in 1650, this estate is described as "old houses and lands lyeing neare the old meeting-house in Boston, £50." This lot extended back on the line of the present Congress street; and on a portion of it, opposite the junction of Congress street and Exchange place (lately Lindall street), the Quakers built a meeting-house in 1709, and had their burial-ground in the rear. Interments took place, though rarely, in this ground till 1815, and in 1826 the bodies, such as could be found, were removed, chiefly to Lynn. (See Shurtleff, Description of Boston, p. 231.) Leverett's property also took in the present Exchange Building lot. The upper part of Leverett's lot afterwards became the home of Andrew Belcher, a wealthy merchant, who lived here in 1691, and was the father of Governor Belcher. For a note on Andrew Belcher's family connections, see Sewall Papers, iii., 160; and N. E. Hist. and Geneal. Reg., 1873, p. 239. Andrew Belcher died in 1717. East of him was the land which Governor Leverett sold to Jeremiah Dummer, a goldsmith, in 1677, the father of Lieut.-Governor William Dummer, and of Jeremiah, — the last being born on this spot.

G. 69. Robert Scott. [House, with Mr. Leveritt east and south, the street west and north. Evidently on the corner of a lane, presumable Pudding Lane, now Devonshire street. — W.H.W.]

G. 70. Robert Scott. [His lot No. 3, a garden, with T. Leveritt east, H. Webb south, the highway south and west. — W.H.W.]

G. 71. Henry Webb. [His lot No. 2, with J. Leveritt east, the highway and R. Scott north, the lane west, and T. Oliver south. This south boundary is a puzzle. It apparently should be W. Parsons (see next lot, G. 72), and Oliver does not seem to have owned east of the lane. Perhaps Oliver had sold to Parsons, and the old ownership remained in mind. — W.H.W.]

G. 72. William Parsons. [House and garden, with the lane west, H. Webb north, J. Davies east, and the Springgate south. — W.H.W.]

G. 73. James Davies. [House and garden, the Springgate south, T. Leverett north, W. Parsons west, the marsh east. — W.H.W.]

G. 74. John Spoor, house and garden. Spoor was called of Clapton, Somersetshire, when he bought in 1638, Mr. Wilke's house and ground, — perhaps this lot. Somewhere hereabout, on the Creek, the leather-dressers, in 1643, were granted a place to water their leather. Spoor mortgaged this property in 1648, and by some means we find Deacon Henry Bridgham in possession in 1655, who built, in 1670, a mansion on the ground, and had his tan-pits near by. He did not live, however, to move into the new house, but died in the old one, in March, 1670–71; and on the death of his widow, in 1672, the property passed to the sons, and in 1680 was divided, the new house falling to Dr. John Bridgham, of Ipswich. The doctor died in 1721, and this house fell to his nephew, Joseph Bridgham, a recent graduate of Harvard, but now an apothecary in Harvard. Bridgham sold it in February, 1734–35, to Francis Borland, for £1,200. Joseph Calef was a tenant of the house, and plied his trade with the tan-pits. It was while Calef was here that Congress street was laid out from Milk to Water street. He died in September, 1763, and the house and grounds fell to Francis Lindall Borland, but afterwards came in joint possession of John Borland, a brother of Francis Lindall, and to the children of Wait Still Winthrop, who had married a daughter of Francis Borland. The remaining history of the house falls later than the provincial times. It became the famous Julien House, and its descent is traced at length by Shurtleff, Boston, 659.

G. 75. William Hibbins, gentleman, house, garden, and stable. Somewhere between 74 and 75 on the Water-street side, Major John Walley had his mansion-house in the early part of the next century, with wharf belonging, and land stretching through to Milk street. Upon his death, in 1711, it descended to his son John; and on his death, in 1755, it was advertised as containing "upwards of twenty rooms." The present Devonshire street runs through G. 75, and was early known as Joyliffe's lane, from John Joyliffe, a prominent citizen, who lived upon it, and died in 1701. (Drake's Boston, 509.)

G. 76. Richard Sherman, house. His will, in 1660, is printed in N. E. Hist. and Geneal. Reg., July, 1855, p. 227. (See Ibid., April, 1864, p. 157, for the will of the widow Robinson, formerly wife of Richard Sherman.) [Richard Sherman, house and garden, with Mr. Hibbins north and east, A. Haugh south, the Green west. — W.H.W.]

G. 77. The Spring-gate. [This was a spring and watering place, probably reaching from Washington street to Mr. Hibbins' land. Spring lane preserves the memory, and the great spring found in digging the foundations of the New Post Office is probably the representative of the original. — W.H.W.]

G. 78. Deacon Thomas Oliver, house and garden. (See his relationship to the other Olivers in N. E. Hist. and Geneal. Reg., April, 1865, p. 100.) Between this lot and Gov. Winthrop's well-known house, on the line of the present Spring lane, was the ancient spring-gate of the first comers. When, in the provincial period, Water street was extended through this lot into the present Washington street, on the northerly corner, at the sign of the "Heart and Crown," Thomas Fleet, in 1731, had his printing office, and here, in 1735, he began the publication of the Boston Evening Post.

G. 79. Richard Fairbanks, house and garden; sold in 1652 to Robert Turner, who later built a new house on the lot, which is mentioned in his will (N. E. Hist. and Geneal. Reg., Jan., 1859, p. 11). Here at a later day the Blue Anchor was kept by George Monck, whom Dunton celebrates in his Letters, and who extended his career into the provincial days. (See Whitmore's note to Record Commissioners' edition of Gleaner Articles, p. 18.) A petition from Joseph Willson for a license shows that this or another tavern of the same name was called "Near Oliver's Dock" in 1755, and that it had been known as such for forty years, — a lesser period than is true, certainly if it was not another hostelry. It was the same tavern that Thomas Bayley petitioned for the privilege of keeping in 1752.

G. 80. William Corser, house and garden. He is called in his will, 1673, Cosser, and, being "weak of body," makes his mark to it. His wife was Joanna.

G. 81. Major Robert Keayne, house and garden. This public-spirited and somewhat eccentric citizen was a prominent merchant. The signatures of the "overseers" of his remarkable will (an abstract is given in N. E. Hist. and Geneal. Reg., Jan., 1852, p. 89, etc.) are appended to a petition to the colony government in 1667, on file at the State House. (Mass. Archives, "Estates," Vol. I.) The most extended account of Keayne is found in Whitman's Ancient and Honorable Artillery Company, of which Keayne was the leading charter member. On this spot, in provincial times, Daniel Henchman kept his well-known book shop; and in this shop, later, Henry Knox was brought up. Nicholas Boone also kept a book-shop on this lot in the early part of the eighteenth century.

G. 82. Mary, widow of Ralph Hudson, house. She died in 1651, and left £10 to the school. At this date she had two houses on this lot, occupied by Nathaniel Duncan and John Tincker. (N. E. Hist. and Geneal. Reg., Jan., 1850, p. 54.) Near this spot, in the next century, John Phillips kept a book-shop. Drake, Boston, p. 566, gives an engraving of his sign. He died March 30, 1763. (See Boston News-Letter, April 28, 1763.) [Mrs. Hudson's lot is not specified in the Book. — W.H.W.]

G. 83. Henry Webb, house, with William Corser just south of him on the lane. The will of Henry Webb, 1660, is given in N. E. Hist. and Geneal. Reg., April, 1856, p. 177. His daughter

Margaret, widow of Jacob Sheaffe (whose inventory is given in Register, Jan, 1856, p. 84), inherited the "Mansion," and his grandchild, Elizabeth Sheaffe, his warehouse "now let out to build."

LOTS 84 TO 100, NORTH SIDE OF STATE STREET, FROM WASHINGTON STREET TO THE WATER-LINE, THENCE ALONG THE COVE AND WASHINGTON STREET.

G. 84. John Cogan, house and shop. Cogan's will (given in N. E. Hist. and Geneal. Reg., Jan., 1855, p. 35; also see 1877, p. 106) speaks of his mansion-house and the house adjoining (occupied by Goodman Bumstead), and two shops adjoining. One-third of the property descended to his widow Martha, whom he had married when, as the fourth wife of Governor Winthrop, she survived him. She was a sister of Increase Nowell of Charlestown, and widow, when Winthrop married her, of Thomas Coitmore, of the same town. Joseph Rocke married Elizabeth, daughter of Cogan.

G. 85. Rev. John Wilson, house, two gardens; yard, and barn, bounding south on Wilson's lane, now widened and called Devonshire street. Wilson's will is given in N. E. Hist. and Geneal. Reg., Oct., 1862, p. 343. In 1641 he sold part to Sergeant John Davies, the joiner, and provided that he should not be "annoyed with any stincks;" and Davies in 1646 sold to Edmund Jackson, from whom it passed to Hezekiah Usher, the merchant of a later day, who had removed from Cambridge to Boston in 1646. Usher's inventory mentions a dwelling-house, garden, land, and "inward warehouse," with lean-tos at the dock, — £700; the dwelling-house that John Usher lives in, and "outward warehouse," by the town dock, £570. His descendants are traced in N. E. Hist. and Geneal. Reg., October, 1869, p. 410.

G. 86. Anthony Stoddard, linendraper, who, in 1644, was suffered to open his "shop window board" two feet into the street, and who bounded east on the "new street" (Exchange street). In 1644 he sold the northerly part, fronting on the new street, to James Mattock the cooper, and in the same year this portion passed successively to John Synderland and to John Parker the carpenter. In 1646, Stoddard, John Leverett joining with him, sold the southerly part to Henry Shrimpton, brazier. His will, 1666, is in N. E. Hist. and Geneal. Reg., Jan., 1861, p. 76. It was on this corner that the Royal Exchange Tavern stood at a later day. Luke Vardy kept it in 1727, and he was succeeded in 1747 by Robert Stone, and in his time it was a resort of the British officers stationed in the town. It was in this house, in 1728, that the altercation began which ended in the first duel fought in Boston, when Benjamin Woodbridge was killed by Henry Phillips. (See Shurtleff's Boston, p. 222.)

[From W. Franklin's lot, G. 98, it seems that he had Stoddard and John Leverett south. Leverett's presumed lot is shown on Lamb's map. — W.H.W.]

G. 87. Valentine Hill ; sold to William Davies, and he, in 1645, to Anthony Stoddard. This was the site of the States Arms Tavern, and just before the Revolution the royal Custom-house was here, Bartholomew Green living in the chambers over it.

G. 88. William Davies, Jr. [House with W. Pierce east and north, V. Hill west, the street south. — W.H.W.]

G. 89. William Pierce, along the line of the present 'Change Avenue. (See N. E. Hist. and Geneal. Reg., 1878, p. 319.) On the site forming the lower corner of this avenue, after the middle of the next century, John Mein kept the London Bookstore, the most considerable in the town ; and here he started the earliest circulating library. Opposite the northerly end of this estate, where it abutted on the dock, on land reclaimed from the tide, Peter Faneuil built, in 1742, the famous hall. [Pierce had house and garden, with D. Sellick east, I. Grosse and the highway north, W. Davies, Jr., and the street south, E. Bendall, V. Hill, and W. Davies west. — W. H. W.]

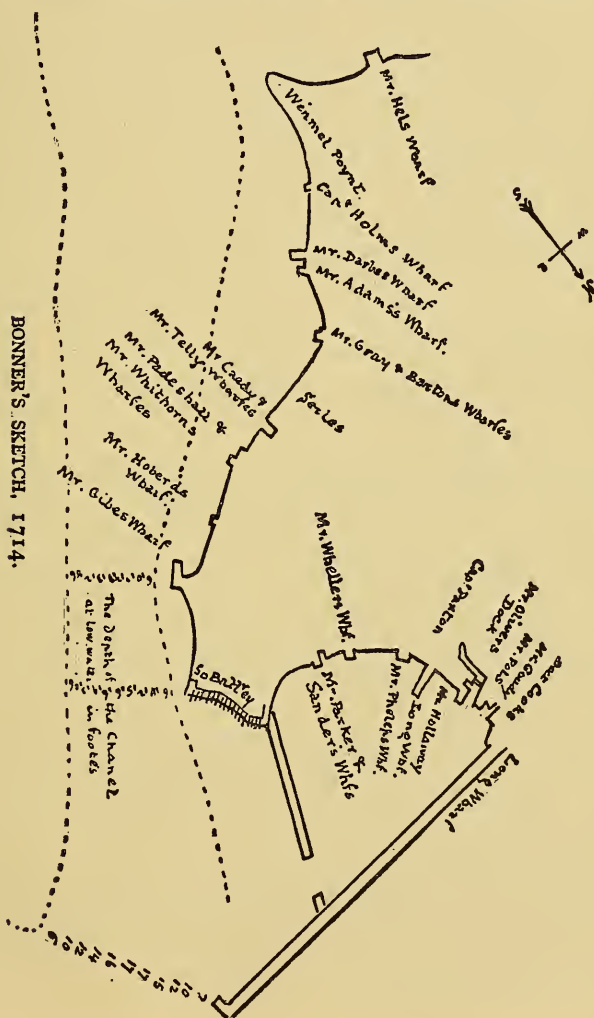

G. 90. David Sellick. [House and garden, with the street south, W. Pierce west, V. Hill north, J. Oliver east. Suff. deeds, i., f. 100, 27th, 12 mo., 1648. V. Hill sells to D. Sellick his house that H. bought of Mr. Aspinwall, with the barber's shop and all pertaining, except what H. had sold to John Friend. At the same time Hill sold to Mary Friend a quarter of an acre with the street south, D. Sellick west, E. Tyng east, V. Hill north, with a right of way to the water. This lot does not seem to be in the Book, unless, as Winsor says, it was James Oliver's — the next lot, G. 91. — W.H.W.]

G. 91. James Oliver. [House and yard, with the street south, V. Hill north, D. Sellick west, E. Tyng east. — W.H.W.]

G. 92. Edward Tyng, house, brewhouse, warehouse, with wharf in front, which he sold, in 1651, to James Everill, describing it as "my wharf against the end of the great street," and along which on the south went the "town's way down upon the flats," — which corresponds to the present State street below Merchants' Row ; and this street was then designated as "Mr. Hill's highway twenty feet broad," which followed the shore of the Cove to the present Dock square. Somewhere on the water front of Tyng's estate there were wharves occupied by Thomas Venner,¹ and another that Henry Webb was allowed "to enjoy" in 1647, having bought it of Tyng. In the next century the rich Huguenot merchant, Andrew Faneuil, had his warehouse where Tyng's wharf stood, the present lower corner of Merchants' Row. This was in 1732 ; and later, in 1743, Richard Smith kept here the Admiral Vernon Tavern. In 1750 there seems to have been a change, for in the State Archives there is a petition from Smith to be licensed to keep the Crown Coffee House "at the lower end of King street," which had been a licensed house for nearly forty years. At the same date James Gooch, Jr., took possession of the "Vernon's Head," as his petition calls it. Smith's predecessor in the "Crown" was widow

¹ [He is styled a wine-cooper, and was later of Salem. Returning to England, he became a Fifth Monarchy preacher, and engaged in an insurrection ; was executed in 1661.]

Anna Swords, and the estate was then owned by Governor Belcher. Robert Shelcock kept it in 1751. It stood at the lower corner of Chatham Row, projecting into the street. It was the first house on Long Wharf, which, after the flats had been filled in below Merchants' Row, was projected by Oliver Noyes and others in 1707. Noyes was a selectman and a citizen of prominence; and the town, within a year or two, adopted his plan to build a pier to low-water mark. — (See Proceedings Mass. Hist. Soc. for Sept., 1864.)

Near the "Crown" were the counting-house and warehouse of a noted mercantile firm of the early part of the last century, — Samuel and Cornelius Waldo, — later on Merchants' Row, near the Swing Bridge. (See a note on the family in N. E. Hist. and Geneal. Reg., April, 1864, p. 176.)

[Mr. Lamb assigns a lot here between G. 91 and G. 92 to Henry Webb; probably the one which Winsor notes above. — W.H.W.]

G. 93. Valentine Hill; sold, in 1645, to Samuel Cole, who had before this kept a house of entertainment somewhere along the water front in this vicinity. Cole's will, 1666, is given in N. E. Hist. and Geneal. Reg., July, 1861, p. 249. This is, too, the nearest point on the original shore to the spot where, in the provincial times, on land reclaimed from the dock, and near the head of the present South Market street, John Hancock kept store, and by advertisement called upon debtors to the estate of his late uncle, the Hon. Thomas Hancock, to make payment.

G. 94. Isaac Grosse. [House, with W. Pierce south and east, E. Bendall west, the Cove north. This lot is apparently laid out on Lamb's map, with no name affixed. — W.H.W.]

G. 95. Edward Bendall, stone house, with warehouse adjoining. Bendall had been allowed, in 1637, to establish from this point a ferry to Noddle's Island, and to the ships riding before the town. His lot was just west of 'Change avenue.

G. 96. George Foxcroft. [House lot, with the Cove north, E. Bendall east and south, R. Nash north (an evident blunder for west). — W.H.W.]

G. 97. Robert Nash, butcher, house, garden and outhouses, including his slaughter-house, which occasioned the town's men more or less trouble from the careless disposition Nash made of his garbage. He was warned not to kill beasts in the street in 1647. [His lot says, "bounded north and west — ." I suspect this should be the Cove, as Bendall has the Cove north and east. This would indicate a point of land with the Cove curving, especially as Franklin does not bound on Nash, but on a street. — W.H.W.]

G. 98. William Franklin. [House and garden, with the street east and north, J. Wilson west, and J. Leverett and A. Stoddard south. — W.H.W.]

G. 99. Major Edward Gibbons, house, garden, and "housings," including two shops, one occupied by John Newgate, hatter, and the other by Thomas Savage, the tailor, better known from his military honors. [Gibbons has the street west and north; Rev. John Wilson south and east. — W.H.W.]

G. 100. William Corser, house, which seems to be the lot afterwards occupied by William Tilley, whose wife Alice, under power from her husband, conveyed it, in 1649, to Anthony Stoddard. [This lot is not in the Book, but is given in the bounds of Rev. John Wilson's lot, G. 85, as "Major Gibones, W^m. Courser and John Cogan on the west." — W. H. W.]

LOTS ON THE NORTH SIDE OF FORT HILL, FACING THE COVE.

G. f. Valentine Hill's bridge, about where the present Liberty square is, on the line of Kilby street. There were others round this shore in 1649, when Hutchinson, Gillom, Ward, and Compton, and also Jonathan Balston, Thomas Smyth, Stephen Baker, and Richard Richardson, were allowed to make a highway over the marsh "to Mr. Hill's bridge."

G. g. The present bend on Batterymarch street, which was laid out in 1673. On the marsh to the north-west, on the corner of what is now Batterymarch street and Liberty square, stood a well-known ordinary. The marsh had been let by the town in 1656 to Captain James Johnson, and this site was conveyed by him to Thomas Hull; and in 1673 Nathaniel Bishop lived here, and the house was known as "The Blue Bell," and as early as 1674 was jointly tenanted by Deacon Henry Alline and Hugh Drury. In 1692 it is called "The Castle Tavern," and Mr. Hassam thinks (N. E. Hist. and Geneal. Reg., 1877, p. 329) it ceased to be an inn after 1707.

G. 101. Nathaniel Woodward. [House and garden, with B. Ward and E. Hutchinson east, the marsh north and west. — W.H.W.]

G. 102. Edward Hutchinson. [House and yard, with B. Ward east and south, N. Woodward west, the marsh north. — W.H.W.]

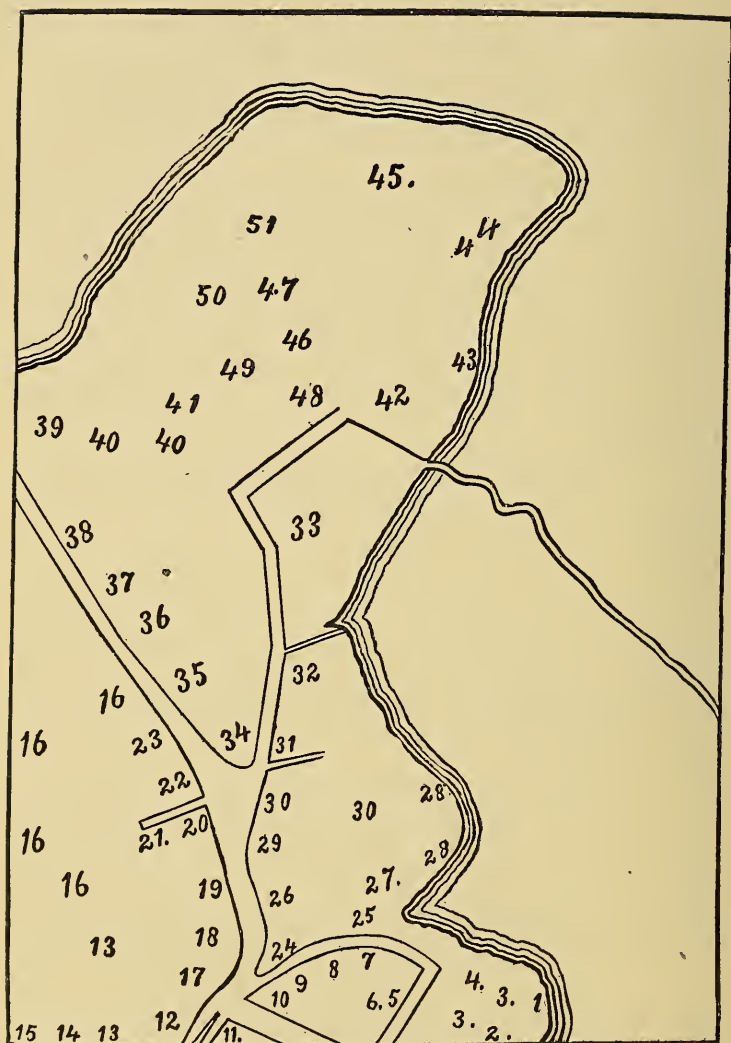

G. 103. Benjamin Ward. [House and about an acre, with N. Woodward, Jr., west, B. Gillom east, Mr. Hibbins south, E. Hutchinson and the marsh north. — W.H.W.]

G. 104. Benjamin Gillom. [House and garden, with B. Ward west, W. Hibbins south, J. Compton and the Cove east, the marsh north. — W.H.W.]

G. 105. John Compton. House and garden, with the Cove east, B. Gillom west and north, the Fort Hill south. — W.H.W.]

G. 106. The Fort. In 1644 land of Mr. William Hibbins was taken for the "breast-worke upon the Fort Hill"; and also, same year, land of James Penn.

G. 107. William Hibbins. [Apparently part of his lot described in the Book (see plan G. 75, ante), as follows: House, garden, and stable, with J. Winthrop west, the Springgate north, J. Spoore east, and R. Sherman and some part of Fort street south. As the marsh and bridge were hereabouts, it is clear that Hibbins owned some land east of them, probably all in one continuous tract. See G. 103, and G. 104. — W.H.W.]

MAP H, OR No. 8.

MAP H, OR NO. 8.

LOTS 1 TO 4, WEST OF HANOVER STREET, AND NORTH OF PORTLAND STREET.

H. 1. James Johnson, glover, upland and marsh; sold to Thomas Hawkins, baker and innholder, in 1662. In 1671-72 this lot and John Davies', by assignments and foreclosure of mortgages, came into the possession of Sampson Sheaffe, and from him the estate passed to William Stoughton, the Governor, who, though a Dorchester man, possessed when he died, in 1701, a large property in real estate hereabout, including the Blue Ball estate.

This last, as well as other property, fell to Stoughton's niece Mehitable, wife of Captain Thomas Cooper, and when the Captain died, in 1705, this lot was valued at £650. His widow afterwards married Peter Sergeant, and again, in 1714, Simeon Stoddard; and as Mrs. Stoddard she died in 1738, and her son by her first husband, Rev. William Cooper, of the Brattle-square Church, sold the lot in 1743 to Dr. William Douglass, a physician and author, who had come from Scotland in 1716, and wrote a Summary of New England History; and when Douglass died, in 1754, mention is made of his mansion-house in Green Dragon lane, which was a passage in the direction of the present Union street, and upon which his house abutted. Douglass was a good deal exercised over the taxes he was called upon to pay; and Drake, Boston, p. 623, sets forth his querulous communication to the assessors. (See also N. E. Hist. and Geneal. Reg., 1877, p. 118.) Ten years later, Catharine Kerr, the sister of Douglass, conveyed it to the St. Andrew's Lodge of Freemasons, and afterwards it became celebrated as the Green Dragon Tavern. Shurtleff considers that it was in the yard in the rear, which bordered upon the mill-pond, that Franklin, as a boy, built the wharf which he describes in his Autobiography. The house had probably been built in Stoughton's day, and it was kept as an inn by Alexander Smith, who died in it in 1696. To him succeeded Hannah Bishop, and in 1697 John Cary took it, and in a petition in 1705 he speaks of having kept it several years. In 1734 Joseph Kidder was the landlord. It acquired the widest reputation after the Revolutionary troubles began, when the "Green Dragon" became the rallying-place of the patriots. (Shurtleff, Description of Boston, p. 613.) Opposite the "Green Dragon," John Borland owned property, which in 1714 he conveyed to Daniel Johonnot, where the latter seems to have had his Distil-House. (N. E. Hist. and Geneal. Reg., Oct., 1852, p. 357.)

[This lot is No. 4 of Johnson's possessions, being three quarters of an acre of upland and marsh, with the Cove north and east, John Smith west, and John Davies south. — W.H.W.]

H. 2. John Smith. [House and garden, with the Cove north, the street south, J. Davies east, E. Gibbons west. — W.H.W.]

H. 3. Major Edward Gibbons. [His lot 2, being a house and lot, with the Cove or Mill Pond north, the street south, J. Smith east, R. Nash west. — W.H.W.]

H. 4. Robert Nash. [His lot No. 2, being an acre with a house-lot, with the Cove north, the street south, the lane west, E. Gibbons, east. — W.H.W.]

LOTS 5 TO 10, BOUNDED BY PORTLAND STREET, HANOVER STREET, AND SUDBURY STREET.

H. 5. Henry Pease. [House and garden, with the Cove north, the street south, the lane east, J. Leverett west. The street is now Hanover street, and the lane is Portland street. — W.H.W.]

H. 6. John Leverett and Henry Pease had lots here. The highway adjoining, the present Portland street, seems to be the twenty-five-foot passage that Henry Pease agreed to "fence out through his lands against the Cove, near his dwelling, unto the cross high way by our brother James Everill's," 1639-40. It was on this lot, where now stands the American House, that Joseph Warren, in 1764, took up his abode, and began the practice of medicine. He lived then in a house in which Joseph Green, a prominent merchant of his day, — not to be confounded with Joseph Green the wit, — died, July 1, 1765. Green had bought of Governor Belcher, in 1734, the large house on this lot for £3,600. (N. E. Hist. and Geneal. Reg., vi., 275.)

[It will be noted that the next four lots, all facing on Sudbury street, bound east on Leverett, who must have owned from Hanover street to the water line, though his lot is not on record. — W.H.W.]

H. 7. Nathaniël Chappel. [House and garden of about quarter of an acre, with the cove north, J. Cole south, the lane west, John Leverett east. — W.H.W.]

H. 8. John Cole. House and garden, with N. Chappel north, J. Mellows south, the lane west, J. Leverett east. — W.H.W.]

H. 9. John Mellows. [House and garden, with J. Cole north, E. Jackson south, the street west, and J. Leveritt east. See my note in Sewall's Diary, II., 210, about Mellows and Coney. — W.H.W.]

H. 10. Edmund Jackson. [House and garden, with J. Mellows north, the lane south, J. Leveritt east, and Sudbury street west. — W.H.W.]

It was on this corner that the Orange-Tree Inn stood during the provincial period. While it was kept, in 1712, by Jonathan Wardwell, he set up here the earliest hackney coach stand. Drake says that Mrs. Wardwell kept it in 1724.

EAST CORNER OF HANOVER AND COURT STREETS.

H. 11. Jeremy Houtchin. [One house and garden of about a quarter of an acre, with Sudbury street south-west, W. Wilson south-east, the lane north-west, T. Makepeace and W. Wilson north-east. Sold, in 1646, to Roger Fletcher, late of London. — W.H.W.]

LOTS 12 TO 23, WEST SIDE OF TREMONT ROW, ACROSS THE HILL TO CAMBRIDGE STREET, AND ALONG THE WEST SIDE OF COURT STREET.

H. 12. Edward Bendall. This had Sudbury [Court] street east, and took in Tremont Row and the centre of Scollay square. Governor Endicott seems to have dwelt during the close of his life on a part of this lot, leaving when he died, in 1665, a widow, Elizabeth, whom he had married in 1630. Endicott's will is in N. E. Hist. and Geneal. Reg., April, 1861, p. 127. David Yale, a brother of Thomas, the founder of Yale College, had, in 1645, purchased of Bendall, who, holding theological views at variance with those of the magistrates, found it convenient to remove, leaving Thomas Lake and Thomas Clark power of attorney to sell the estate. Captain John Wall became the purchaser, and his widow sold it, in 1678, to Edward Shippen (Sewall Papers, i. 60), who sold, in 1702, a part to Cyprian Southack, who laid out Southack's lane in 1720 (Howard street). The selectmen, in 1733, directed him to secure his hill, by rails or otherwise, that people may not be in danger. "Gleaner" places "Valley Acre" in the lower portion of Southack's pasture, referring to a deed of 1758, when it was the property of John Tyng. Where it came out on Tremont Row, Southack sold to John Jekyll, in 1724, whose heirs passed it, in 1768, to Dr. James Lloyd. It was on a part of the original Bendall lot, opposite the head of the modern Cornhill, that, in 1683-84, the free writing-school was built, the second in the town; John Cole being the first master. Soon after 1700 Richard Henchman was the master. (See Drake's Boston, 512.)

H. 13. Rev. John Cotton, house and land, extending back as far as the Mount Vernon Church. (See Cotton's will in N. E. Hist. and Geneal. Reg., April, 1851, p. 240.) The estate passed to his widow, Sarah (subsequently married to Rev. Richard Mather of Dorchester), and to Cotton's son by this wife, — the Rev. Seaborn Cotton. Cotton's (the father's) will shows that Governor Vane had built the south part of the house when he sojourned with Cotton, and had deeded it to Seaborn, to whom the father confirmed it. Later, it became by successive purchases the property of John Hull, the mint-master, whose daughter Hannah married Samuel Sewall the judge, who occupied the estate still later. Whitmore (Sewall Papers, i. 62, where, p. 63, the descent is traced in detail) says it was occupied in 1758 by William Vassall, who purchased it Sept. 11 of that year (N. E. Hist. and Geneal. Reg., April, 1863, p. 115). In 1787 he conveyed it to Leonard V. Borland, who, in 1790, sold it to Patrick Jeffrey. Jeffrey had come to Boston and had married a Madame Haley, a sister of the notorious John Wilkes; he was an uncle of Francis, Lord Jeffrey. (See Gleaner Articles, Nos. 30 and 31.) In 1801 Somerset street was cut through the estate, and Jeffrey sold the part west of the street to Asa Hammond, in 1804; and the part east to Jonathan Mason, in 1802. In 1803 Gardiner Greene bought of Mason, and in 1824 he added the Maud lot (No. 14). Greene made the estate the most famous in Boston. In 1835 this and neighboring estates were sold to Patrick T. Jackson, and Pemberton square was laid out.

H. 14. Daniel Maud, school-master, house and garden. He removed to Dover, N.H., in 1642, and made his will in 1654. (N. E. Hist. and Geneal. Reg., April, 1851, p. 241.) Hezekiah Usher next owned it, who sold it to Thomas Scottow, in 1645. "Gleaner" says it subsequently passed through Leblond, Erving, Brimmer, Bowdoin, Waldo, Walcott, Winthrop, till Gardiner Greene, in 1824, annexed it.

H. 15. Richard Bellingham, garden plot, but afterwards his house-lot, when he removed from Washington street. In his will he speaks of this house and grounds, with a shop before it. The will was set aside, and is printed in N. E. Hist. and Geneal. Reg., July, 1850, p. 237. (See the notes to Mr. Deane's and Mr. Whitmore's chapters in Vol. I. of the Memorial History of Boston.) Bellingham sold the south part of this lot, in 1663, to Humphrey Davis, whose heirs sold it, in 1710, with a stone house thereon, for £800, to Andrew Faneuil, from whom the estate descended to his nephew, Peter Faneuil, and later it was owned by John Vassall. The north part was sold to the Rev. John Davenport, and after the death of his son John, was, in 1676, conveyed to the First Church, and became the parsonage lot. The parish sold it, in 1787, to Sampson Reed. Both of these sections of the Bellingham estate were united, when William Phillips successively purchased them in 1791 and 1805. There was about half an acre of Bellingham's lot back of the other sections which Sewall added to the original Cotton estate. (Sewall Papers, i., 61; Gleaner Articles, No. 32.)

H. 16. Valentine Hill's ground. A portion of this area lying on Cambridge street was, later, the Middlecott pasture (Gleaner Articles, No. 21), through which, in 1727, a street was laid out and called Middlecott; but when it was opened through to Beacon street, in 1800, it was called Bowdoin street. [For a thorough account of Beacon Hill, and the titles of the estates thereon, consult Mr. Bowditch's "Gleaner" notes, reprinted as volume five of the Report of the Record Commissioners. — W.H.W.]

H. 17. Robert Meeres, house and garden. He was aged in 1666, when he executed his will (printed in N. E. Hist. and Geneal. Reg., Oct. 7, 1863, p. 345), and made his mark. This lot, in 1709, came to John Staniford, who sold it to Rev. Henry Harris, whose executors sold to James Pemberton, whose family name became in the end attached to Pemberton square. "Gleaner" traces another part of the original lot to Dr. Samuel Danforth, in 1785.

H. 18. Robert Howen, $\frac{1}{4}$ acre. John and Israel Howen (presumably his heirs) sold it, in 1662-63, to Simon Lynde, who died in 1687; and his daughter Sarah was the wife of Nathaniel Newgate, who conveyed it, in 1694, under the name of "The Spring House."

H. 19. Anne Hunne, widow of George Hunne, $\frac{1}{2}$ acre. This lot marks the site of the elegant mansion and grounds of the late Theodore Lyman, who purchased it in 1785.

H. 20. Henry Fane. [House and garden, with Sudbury street east, New Field west, the lane north, J. Newgate south. — W.H.W.]

H. 21. John Newgate, the latter, house and garden, $\frac{3}{4}$ acre. His will, 1664 (N. E. Hist. and Geneal. Reg., Oct., 1859, p. 333), left his house to his widow, Ann. (Also see Register, 1879, p. 57, for Newgate's family.) Westerly from this a tract belonging to Newgate fell, after his death in 1665, to Simon Lynde, his son-in-law; and then, in 1687, or earlier, to his son, Samuel Lynde. About the middle of the last century it became the property of Thomas Bulfinch, and remained in his family for fifty years. The Revere House marks the south end of Bulfinch's four-acre pasture, as the Mount Vernon Church marks the north end. (Gleaner Articles, No. 23.)

H. 22 and 23. [Next west of the lots of Fane and Newgate, Lamb's map places Jeremy Houtchin No. 22, and Mr. Stoughton No. 23; but I find no warrant for them in the Book. — W.H.W.]

LOTS 24 TO 33, BOUNDED BY CAMBRIDGE AND GREEN STREETS, LEVERETT STREET, THE WATER LINE, AND THE WEST SIDE OF SUDBURY STREET.

H. 24. [The square lying north of our Cambridge street, from Sudbury street to Pitts street, was owned by James Johnson, Thomas Hawkins, William Kirkby, James Hawkins, Richard Sanford, Robert Meers, Thomas Scottow, Richard Meers, Henry Pease, Alexander Beck, and John Leverett. I cannot, however, see the grounds for the divisions made on Lamb's map, as will be pointed out later. — W.H.W.]

H. 24. James Johnson. [House and garden, with the street south-east and south-west, the Cove north-west, and Thomas Hawkins north-east. Evidently the corner, and, as evidently, running through to the water. — W.H.W.]

H. 25. Thomas Hawkins. [Apparently not entered in the Book of Possessions. — W.H.W.]

H. 26. William Kirkby. [House and garden, with the lane south-east, James Hawkins north, Richard Sanford west. This lot seems to be in the curve of the street (Cambridge street), and probably had J. Johnson on the east in part. — W.H.W.]

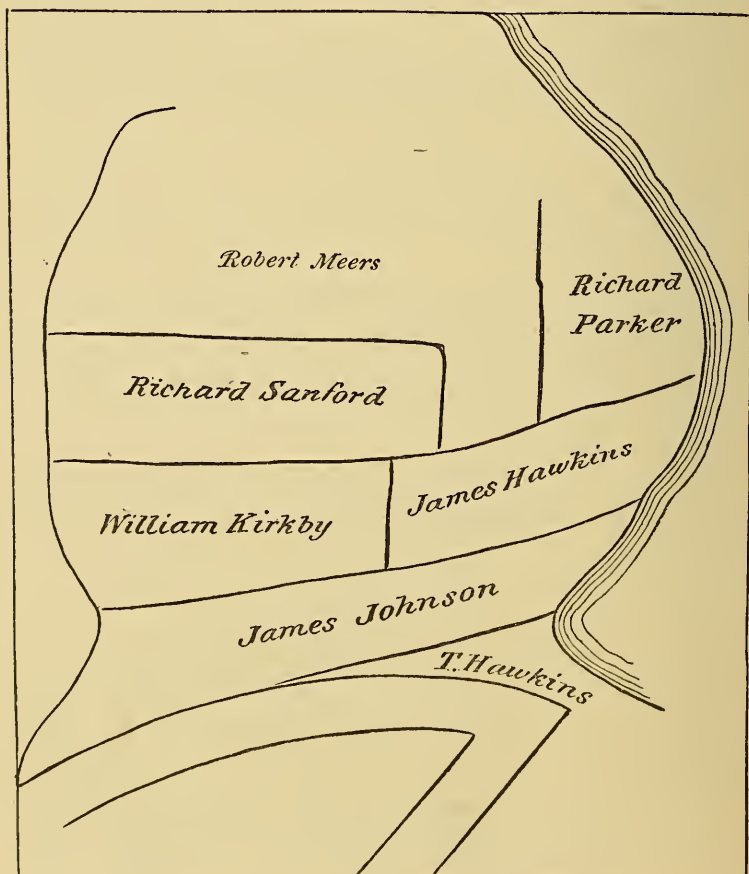

H. 27. James Hawkins. [House and garden, with W. Kirkby south, R. Sanford west. No other bounds given east or north. — W.H.W.]

H. 28. Richard Parker. [Apparently not recorded; but it figures as the north bound of Sanford and Robert Meers. — W.H.W.]

H. 29. Richard Sanford. [House and lot of about an acre,

R. Parker north, J. Hawkins and W. Kirby east, the street west, and Robert Meers west. Here are two west bounds, and no south line. The street was probably south. — W.H.W.]

H. 30. Robert Meers. [His lot No. 3, being half an acre in the New Field, with R. Parker north, J. Hawkins east, Tho. Scottow south, Richard Meers west. Here I suspect another error, as Richard Meers does not elsewhere appear. If it be Robert, i.e., another lot of the same owner, I should surmise that Scottow's lot was the same as Sanford's. It seems that Thomas Scottow's will mentions his aged mother Sanford; hence, it is probable that Scottow and Richard Sanford were brothers-in-law. As Scottow is not recorded as owning any lot here, it seems more reasonable to conclude that it was the Sanford lot which was meant. This would bring Meers out to the lane, now Chardon street, which would close the description as nearly as can now be done. The following cut may represent the first apportionment. — W.H.W.]

H. 31. Henry Pease.

H. 32. Alexander Beck. [These two lots are so laid down on Lamb's map. But Pease's lot is already located (H. 5) as on the corner of Hanover and Portland streets. Beck's lot is thus described: "A small parcel of land, first granted for a houselot, bounded with John Leverett south, Henry Pease east, a small creek west, and the Cove north." This apparently might as well be down on Sudbury street, unless there be other reasons for giving Pease another lot—unrecorded in the Book—in this vicinity. — W.H.W.]

H. 33. George Burden. [His lot No. 3, being in the New Field five and a half acres, with the marsh east, J. Mellows west, R. Fairbanks north, and E. Jackson south. — W.H.W.]

LOTS 34 TO 51, WEST OF CAMBRIDGE STREET, AND SOUTH OF LEVERETT STREET, WITH THE WATER LINE.

H. 34. David Sellick. [By the terms of E. Jackson's lot, it would seem that David Sellick owned a lot here; but it is not recorded. — W.H.W.]

H. 35. Edmund Jackson. [His lot No. 2, being about three acres in the New Field, with G. Burden north, Valentine Hill south, D. Sellick east, R. Meers west. — W.H.W.]

H. 36. Robert Meers. [His lot No. 2, being two acres in the New Field, with E. Jackson east, R. Turner west, G. Burden north, R. Cook south. — W.H.W.]

H. 37. Robert Turner. [There seems to be of necessity a lot of Turner's here, between H. 35 and H. 37. Probably he had it of Valentine Hill, though it is not recorded in the Book. — W.H.W.]

H. 38. William Davies the apothecary. [His lot of four acres in the New Field, bought of Valentine Hill, with Thomas Buttolph south, James Pen north, R. Turner east, John Biggs and James Pen west. — W.H.W.]

H. 39. John Biggs.

H. 40. James Pen.

H. 41. John Mellows. [These three lots seem to be required by the boundaries of H. 33 and H. 38, but are not recorded. — W.H.W.]

Mr. Winsor's note is as follows:—

a. The present Cambridge street was laid out in 1647, twelve feet wide, through Mr. Stoughton's ground at this point, "along the rayle side," through Richard Cooke's and Thomas Buttolph's, "to the farder end of the lots to Tho. Munt's ground on the farthest side."

b. David Sellick; sold to John Leverett. The highway, which at this point extended north and west, was early called Green lane; and there is a petition on file in the City Clerk's office, March 10, 1734, asking that it may be paved, which gives many of the chief abutters at that time. c. Edmund Jackson, 3 acres; afterwards Thomas Leverett.

d. Robert Meeres, 2 acres. Symon Lynde bought it in 1667-91; sold it in 1718, to John Staniford, — then increased to six acres. Staniford seems to have disposed of a part of it, at least, by lottery. (Sewall Papers, iii., 227; Gleaner Articles, No. 9.) This included the rising ground, where a windmill stood, near the present West Church (Dr. Bartol's). This edifice was raised in 1736, and the original structure is shown in the view of the Battle of Bunker Hill, given in the third volume of the Memorial History.

e. Robert Turner. Passed later to Staniford. f. Valentine Hill; sold, in 1648, to William Davis, 4 acres; then on his death, 1676, to his son Benjamin, who conveyed it to his mother (she having married Edward Palmes), and they, in 1695, passed it to Charles Chambers, who gave his name to the street now running through the lot. (Gleaner Articles, No. 10.)

g. John Biggs, $1\frac{1}{2}$ acre. Marsh granted in 1641, west of North Russell street. His widow died in 1676, and the land coming to her father, John Dasset, it was conveyed to James Allen, in 1696.

h. Thomas Munt.

i. James Penn. In 1671 it fell by his will to James Allen, his nephew, who, later, added lot No. g, making a twenty-acre farm. He extended Chambers street northerly. "Gleaner" thinks it certain that Allen thus owned a larger lot in Boston than any one else, excepting Blackstone. j. Edward Gibbons.

k. Alexander Beck, 1 acre, — a little marsh, "next Mr. Hough's Point;" and described a few years before, when Beck was allowed to mow it, as in the new field, "near the place where Mr. Hough taffes boat."

H. 42. Richard Fairbank. [His lot No. 3, being four acres in the New Field, with George Burden and Henry Pease south, the river east, T. Oliver north, Isaac Addington, Alexander Beck, and James Brown west. — W.H.W.]

H. 43. Henry Pease. [Lamb places Pease's lot on the marsh at the point, crossing the end of the causeway which led over the mill-pond. — W.H.W.]

H. 44. Thomas Oliver. [His lot No. 2, being one acre and a half, with R. Fairbanks south, the marsh west, R. Carter south, as the description reads. — W.H.W.]

H. 45. Richard Carter. [Apparently, but the lot is not recorded. — W.H.W.]

H. 46. James Brown. [His lot No. 3, being half an acre in the New Field with R. Fairbanks north, J. Allington (or Addington) east, A. Beck west, Thomas Clark south. — W.H.W.]

H. 47. Alexander Beck. [His lot No. 2, being one acre in the New Field with Thomas Munt east, the water north, E. Gibbons south and west. — W.H.W.]

H. 48. Isaac Addington. [This lot is necessitated by lots H. 42 and H. 46. It is not on record. — W.H.W.]

H. 49. Thomas Clarke. [Not recorded, but mentioned in H. 46. — W.H.W.]

H. 50. Edward Gibbons.

H. 51. Thomas Munt. [These two lots are necessary, but not well indicated. — W.H.W.]

MAP I, OR NO. 9.

MAP I, OR NO. 9.

COPP'S HILL, OR THE MILL FIELD.

I. 1. Christopher Stanley's pasture, which extended west to Salem street, and was defined on the other sides pretty nearly by Charter, Hanover, and Prince streets. He was a tailor, and left by will, 1646, the first bequest to the town for the support of schools. (See N. E. Hist. and Geneal. Reg., Jan. 1850, p. 52.) Stanley's widow, Susannah, married William Phillips, who confirmed to her the house Stanley left her, "with the great pasture." (Register, Oct., 1851, p. 447.) A northerly part of this lot passed, in 1665, through Richard Dumer, to John Hull, the mint-master; and in 1683 he died, and his daughter Hannah and her husband, Judge Sewall, conveyed Hull street, in 1701-5, to the town.

[The map line cuts off the southerly part of this pasture, which is shown on Map K, or No. 10. — W.H.W.]

I. 2. Thomas Buttolph. [Apparently his fifth lot (see B. of P., p. 42), "about half an acre, bounded with the causeway north-east, William Cox (i.e., Copp) north-west, the marsh south-west. He had other lands in Mill Field. (See Map K.) — W.H.W.]

I. 3. William Copp, shoemaker. A small cove made in south of him, with marsh stretching farther east. In his will, in 1669, he calls himself sick and weak; a cordwainer by occupation; and he leaves the enjoyment of the house to his wife, "Gooddeth." In his inventory his house, out-houses, orchard, garden, and land about the house are valued at £80. (See also Sewall Papers, ii., 408.) Not far from this point, and taking part of the property of the Gas Company, early in the next century Joshua Gee had a ship-yard, and he owned adjacent lands, which fell, in 1724, to his son Ebenezer (d. 1730), and finally wholly to Rev. Joshua Gee, who died in 1748, when the estate was divided according to a document which "Gleaner" calls one of the most important in the Probate Office.

[He had a house and half an acre in the Mill field, with the marsh south-west, Thomas Buttolph south-east, the river north-west, John Button north-east. Hence he had the corner lot. — W.H.W.]

I. 4. John Button. [One acre, with Charles river north, the marsh south-west, John Shaw north-east and south-east. — W.H.W.]

I. 5. John Shaw, who seems to have surrounded the wind-mill lot. There was a bluff here above the beach where the way run.

[His name is not among the possessors, but figures in the above description of Button's abutters. — W.H.W.]

I. 6. The wind-mill lot.

I. 7. Valentine Hill. Here, at Hudson's Point, was the ferry to Charlestown, and Francis Hudson, the ferryman, was allowed to wharf out here in 1652 "before his ground;" and Thomas Broughton had a like privilege hereabout the same year; and when this privilege was continued a year later, the expression is "to wharf or make a barrocadd before his land at Center Haven." Southerly from this point, on the brow of the hill, the town purchased of John Baker and Daniel Turrell, in 1659, the beginning of the present Copp's Hill Burying-ground, and in 1711 added a part of Judge Sewall's pasture, to the south-west. (Shurtleff, Desc. of Boston, p. 199; Gleaner Articles, No. 14.) Hull street adjacent was not paved till 1735, when Edward Pell and other abutters petitioned for leave to pave it.

I. 8. Nicholas Parker, 2 acres; allowed to wharf out in 1651. He had built a house here before 1646, when a footway was laid out from it through the gardens to the "mill lane or street;" and along the shore, in 1650, "a way of a rod broad" was laid out from the battery to the ferry. Well in from the shore in this lot, after Salem and Charter streets were laid out, on the westerly corner of them, there was a brick house which Daniel Turrell and Samuel Wakefield, with their wives, sold to Lady Phips in November, 1687. Only a few days before Sewall records that news had come of her husband being dubbed Sir William Phips at Windsor Castle. The Governor later added to the estate from adjacent lots.

[Parker had V. Hill north-west, the water north-east, T. Buttolph south-west and south-east. — W.H.W.]

MAP K, OR NO. 10.

MAP K, OR NO. 10.

THE SOUTH-EASTERLY PART OF COPP'S HILL, FOLLOWING THE LINE OF NORTH AND COMMERCIAL STREETS.

K. 00. The remainder of Christopher Stanley's lot. I. 1.

K. 0. The remainder of Nicholas Parker's lot. I. 8.

K. 1. Thomas Buttolph. [Apparently his lots Nos. 3 and 4, of $4\frac{1}{2}$ acres in the Mill-field, with the Bay north-east, N. Parker and V. Hill north-west, C. Stanley south; also one acre compassed by Stanley's ground. — W.H.W.]

Christopher Stanley in 1644 was allowed to wharf near Winnisimmet ferry. Along this water front there were various ship-yards established later in the colonial and in the early provincial period. They appear in Bonner's map in 1722. Captain William Greenough's yard was nearly opposite this lot.

K. 2. Edward (or Edwin) Goodwin. [House and half an acre, the Bay north-east, J. Sweet south-east, T. Buttolph north-west and south-west. — W.H.W.]

K. 3. John Sweet. [House and $1\frac{1}{4}$ acres, with E. Goodwin north-west, the Bay north-east, I. Grosse south-east, and C. Stanley south-west. Lamb's map makes Sweet's lot form two sides of a square enclosing Merry, Grosse, and Seabury, the water making the two other sides. This seems necessitated by the description of Grosse's two lots, which see K. 7. — W.H.W.]

John Sweet seems to connect in the rear with his other lot. Perhaps this was the lot Governor Bellingham was permitted to wharf before, in 1648, "if it did not prejudice the battery," when it was described as between Merry and William Winbourne; and somewhere near was a house which Sampson Shore sold to Christopher Lawson in 1646, when he wharfed out before it.

K. 4. Isaac Grosse. [Apparently his third lot, with the Bay east, John Sweet north, John Seaberry south, Walter Merry west. — W.H.W.]

K. 5. John Seabury. [House and garden, about half an acre, with Isaac Grosse north-west, the Bay north-east, W. Merry south-east and south-west. Winsor says this was first Merry's land, bought by Seabury in 1639, and then sold "successively to John Wilson and Alexander Adams in 1645, who was allowed, in 1646, to wharf out, maintaining along the shore a highway for a cart." — W.H.W.]

K. 6. Walter Merry, $\frac{1}{2}$ acre, who built "a roof over the highway on the sea-banke" to the annoyance of the selectmen; and when Hanover street was extended in his rear, in 1644, he was allowed the cost of fencing on that side. He was ordered to keep a highway open on the shore sixteen feet broad, in 1646, and sold the property the same year to William Douglass, who in turn sold it to Henry Brown, mariner, in 1648, with what is called Anker's shop. The North Battery was built out here in 1646, and repaired in 1656.

K. 7. Isaac Grosse. [His second lot, the Bay and John Sweet north, W. Beamsley south, the way west. Perhaps there was a little bend or cove here, as otherwise we should call the Bay east. Although Lamb's map makes a way from Savage's corner east to Sweet's lot, none of the six owners between bound westerly on a way except Gross; but, curiously, nearly all omit the west bounds. — W.H.W.]

In the provincial period not far from this spot stood the Salutation Inn, which gave a name to an alley running by it, connecting Hanover with North street. John Brooking owned it, and his widow sold it, in 1692, to Sir William Phips. (Sewall Papers, i., 222.) John Scollay, hiring of Lady Phips in 1697, kept it. Samuel Green was the host in 1731. It became famous later, when William Campbell kept it, in 1773, and it was a rallying-place for the patriots.

K. 8. William Beamsley. [House and house-lot of about half an acre, the Bay east, I. Grosse north and north-west, Anne Tuttle south and south-west. — W.H.W.]

K. 9. Anne Tuttle. [House and garden, with W. Beamsley north, N. Bourne south, the Bay east, and — (probably the west bound was left for farther search). — W.H.W.]

It was on the rear of this lot, on the lower corner of the present Clark and Hanover streets, that the New North Church was built in 1714, — a small wooden building, enlarged in 1730, and giving place to the present edifice in 1802. The land was then bought of Colonel Thomas Hutchinson for £455.

K. 10. Nehemiah Bourne, shipwright, who built here, in 1641, the "Trial," the first large vessel built in Boston. John Richards was using this yard in 1688. Bourne had come over in 1638; previously living at Charlestown and Dorchester, had come to Boston in 1641. The "Trial" made her first voyage to the Azores and West Indies under the command of Thomas Coitmore. On her next voyage, to Bilboa and Malaga, she was commanded by Thomas Graves, and returned to Boston, March 23, 1643-44. Bourne went again to England, and served as major of a regiment in the Parliamentary army; but was once more in Boston in 1645, returning to England the next year, and became rear-admiral in the Parliament's navy. There is an account of Bourne in N. E. Hist. and Geneal. Reg., Jan., 1873.

[His house and garden had Capt. Hawkins south, the Bay east, Anne Tuttle north, "and on the north —," which last entry I surmise was for north-west or west, and never filled out. — W.H.W.]

K. 11. Capt. Thomas Hawkins. [Apparently the lot sold him by Edward Bendall, 30th, 11mo., 1650. If so, it began 40 feet north from the lot that was R. Thompson's, and so to N. Bourne's, running with Bourne's pales from the sea on the east to C. Stanley's rails on the west, the south line being parallel. — W.H.W.]

Hawkins is supposed to have built the house, which became later the "Ship Tavern," which stood till 1866. John Vyal kept it in 1663, and it is associated with some stirring events. Hawkins's ship-yard was on the opposite water front, and he built here, as early as 1645, the ship "Seafort," of four hundred tons. Hawkins's inventory is given in N. E. Hist. and Geneal. Reg., Oct., 1855, p. 343.

K. 12. Edward Bendall. [His third lot, with the Bay east, Capt. Hawkins north, and Lieut. Savage south. — W.H.W.]

Edward Bendall sold to Anchor Ainsworth, and subsequent owners were Joseph Phippeni, 1647, George Mitchell, John Baker. Baker's will is in N. E. Hist. and Geneal. Reg., April, 1861, p. 124.

The way along the shore from the dock to Gallop's Point had been laid out "as it is begun" in 1643, and in 1650 it appears that "the way formerly granted of a rod in breadth from Gallop's Point to the Battery, being interrupted by Mrs. Hawkins her house, it shall turn up from the water side through Mrs. Hawkins her garden, and soe by Mr. Winthrop's house, between Major Borne's house and his garden, before Mr. Holioke's, to the Battery," — marking some changes in ownership.

K. 13. Thomas Savage. [House and garden, with the Bay east, C. Stanley west, E. Bendall north, and the lane south. This lane became Bennet street, and Scarlet's wharf was at its easterly end. — W.H.W.]

This, or another house on the spot, became, later, the "King's Head Tavern," which was burned in 1691, and rebuilt. Drake says that James Davenport kept it in 1755, and his widow in 1758; but in 1754, Davenport, who had kept the "Globe Tavern," petitioned to keep the "Bunch of Grapes," formerly known as "Castle Tavern," near Scarlet's Wharf, which had been a licensed house for forty or fifty years. There is an account of Davenport in N. E. Hist. and Geneal. Reg., 1879, p. 31. A little way from Bennet street, on the northerly side (it is shown on Bonner's map), stood the North Grammar School, erected in 1713. Recompence Wadsworth was the first master; and there is on the files of the city clerk an interesting testimonial to his fidelity, signed by Increase Mather and other ministers of the town.

K. 14. Edmund Grosse. His will, 1655, is given in N. E. Hist. and Geneal. Reg., July, 1858, p. 273. He sold the lot to John Anderson, shipwright, in 1647. It seems to have been on this lot that Judge Edward Hutchinson later built him a house, which, late in the eighteenth century, became the "North End Coffee House." It was opposite this point that the principal wharf of the North End was later built, known first as Clark's Wharf, and subsequently as Hancock's, — Thomas Hancock being the principal proprietor. [House lot, with the lane north, I. Cole south, I. Cullimer west, the Bay east. — W.H.W.]

K. 15. Samuel Cole, house and garden; sold, in 1645, to George Halsall, who, in 1646, had liberty "to set down a causey ten foot square, from his wharfe to low-watter marke, and that passingers shall come and goe free to it;" and shortly after he was permitted "to imploy a passag boatt betweene his wharfe and the ships wher the ships rid, and is to take a penny for each person."

K. 16. Isaac Cullimer had two lots, the other being K. 21. [I cannot reconcile myself to Lamb's method of marking out these lots with the two of Thomas Joy, and one each of Richard Rawlins and Thomas Clark. Without clear proof, I must doubt that these six lots were cut into such extremely irregular forms, when a much simpler arrangement will answer. Cullimer's east lot (No. 2 of his Possessions), according to the Book, has the bay south-east, C. Stanley north-west, Stanley, S. Cole, and the way north-east, Clark and R. Rawlins south-west. Here I suspect a mistake of "Rawlins" for "Thomas Joy." For Rawlins' lot (K. 18) has Joy (not Cullimer) on the north-east, and Joy's lot (K. 17) has Rawlins south-west and Cullimer north-east. Is it not probable that the perambulator overlooked Joy's strip, which intervened between Cullimer and Rawlins? — W.H.W.]

K. 17. Thomas Joy. [His second lot, of one acre, bounds with C. Stanley north-west, I. Cullimer north-east, R. Rawlins south-west, Mr. Clarke south-east. — W.H.W.]

Upon this lot William Clark (see the account of his family in N. E. Hist. and Geneal. Reg., 1879, pp. 19, 226), a prominent merchant of the provincial period, well known in public affairs, and not always fortunate in his private ventures, built and lived in a house which became famous. It stood fronting the square, very nearly where Prince street now comes into it, on the easterly corner. It was next the residence of Sir Charles Henry Frankland, the royal collector of customs. Further to the east, and occupying the space intervening between the converging streets, was the estate on which Thomas Hutchinson, about 1710, erected, with its front on Garden court leading from the square, the sumptuous house in which the son, Governor Thomas Hutchinson, was born and lived. See Col. Henry Lee's paper on these and other old houses hereabouts, in Mass. Hist. Soc. Proceedings, Feb., 1881. A view of the Hutchinson house is given in the American Magazine, Vol. ii.

K. 18. Richard Rawlins. [House and garden of $1\frac{3}{4}$ acres, with C. Stanley north-west, T. Joy north-east, Clarke south-east, I. Cullimer south-west (i.e., Cullimer's west lot, K. 21). — W.H.W.]

Richard Rawlins, plasterer, probably bought of Peter Johnson, the Dutchman, in 1638; and when Hanover street was extended, in 1644, it took a part of his corn-field behind his house, for which he was compensated. These had lands hereabout later: Thomas Clark, Mark Hands, Henry Lampray, Edward Breck, William Burnell, Henry Paine, George Dell, Thomas Ryder, — some of them doubtless sharing in the breaking up of Stanley's pasture.

K. 19. Thomas Clarke. [Warehouse and house lot. T. Joy north-west, I. Cullimer west (i.e., K. 21), I. Cullimer north-east (i.e., K. 16), and the Cove and T. Joy south (i.e., Joy's lot No. 1, K. 20). — W.H.W.]

Thomas Clarke is called of Dorchester, merchant, when in 1644 he granted a part of his land to Christopher Stanley, which part is perhaps the identical "p'cell of land lying neere to the water side," which Stanley named in his will, two years later, as a bequest, "for the maintenance of the free schoole," and which the town in 1649 sold to William Phillips, in consideration of 13s. 4d. "per annum forever, to the use of the schole." This Thomas Clarke was a prominent merchant, and his inventory, in 1678, shows various estates in Boston. His shop goods are appraised at £756; the house where Elizabeth Stevens lives, £300; the one Mr. Woodmansy lived in, £150; orchard behind it, £100; land at lower end of the Common, £70; the house occupied by his son-in-law, Thomas Baker, £75; the house Edward Shippen lives in, £700.

K. 20. Thomas Joy. [One house and lot of about half an acre, and another house adjoining, with the Cove south-west, Thomas Clarke north-west, north-east, and south-east. Evidently just at the bend of the Cove. — W.H.W.]

Thomas Joy, carpenter, is called of Hingham, when, in 1648, he bonded this estate to Major Savage, with its house, "near the new meeting-house in Boston." This second church is usually considered as built two years later, in 1650; and in this last year a committee was appointed "to lay out the high wayes by the new meetinge house." Mention is made of his cellar "by the water side," in 1642; and in 1644, when it is said to be in the highway. Perhaps this became the new house which, in 1647, he sold to Bozoone Allen, of Hingham, with adjoining wharf. Allen calls himself of Boston in his will, 1652. (N. E. Hist. and Geneal. Reg., July, 1851, p. 299.) Joy built the town-house, and in the final settlement in January, 1661, he received £680.

K. 21. Isaac Cullimer. [Evidently his first lot, with C. Stanley north-west, the Cove south-east, R. Rawlins north-east, F. Hudson and B. Pasmer south-west. It will be noticed that Stanley makes the north-west boundary of Cullimer, Rawlins, Joy, and Cullimer. This was undoubtedly the line of the street, but whether at that date it was more than a cart-track does not appear. F. Hudson, the next westerly owner on the shore, bounds north-west on Wm. Hudson, who here joins Stanley. — W.H.W.]

K. 22. Bartholomew Passmore. [House and garden of about a quarter of an acre, with Francis Hudson north-west, the Cove south-east, I. Cullimer north-east, J. Gallop south-west. — W.H.W.]

Passmore sold to John Sweet in 1650. It was here, on the corner of North and Richmond streets, that Nicholas Upsall kept the Red Lion Inn, and close here the devastating fire of Nov. 27, 1676, broke out in one Wakefield's house. Upsall's will is given in N. E. Hist. and Geneal. Reg., July, 1861, p. 251; and an account of him in Reg., January, 1880.

K. 23. Francis Hudson. [House and garden of about half an acre, with William Hudson, Sr., north-west, I. Cullimer north-east, B. Passmore south-east, J. Gallop south-west. — W.H.W.]

K. 24. John Gallop was fined in 1636 for obstructing the highway on the sea-bank with his "payles;" allowed to wharf out in 1643; after his death, his widow Mehitabel, in 1649, conveyed a part of it to John Synderland. He signed his will (printed in

N. E. Hist. and Geneal. Reg., July, 1853, p. 227) by his mark. About on the line of this estate, a passage from the water front to the present Hanover street was opened, and in Bonner's map, 1722, is marked as Wood lane, the modern Richmond street. Near the present northerly corner on Hanover street, the New Brick Church was built in 1721, and stood till it was rebuilt in 1845.

[Gallop had "the way" north-west. — W.H.W.]

K. 25. Matthew Chaffie, ship-carpenter, house and garden ; sold in part to John Capen, of Dorchester, in 1649. Chaffie's lot extended back to what was the end of Hanover street in 1643, when it was ordered that the way be continued further, two rods broad, "from the west corner of Matthew Chafeth's garden unto the little howse by the swamp," which Christopher Stanley had just bought of the town, "and from thence to the windmill as directly as the land will beare."

[Chaffie had Sampson Shoare south-west, and Thomas Meekins north-west. — W.H.W.]

K. 26. William Hudson, Sr., 5 acres ; sold to Thomas Buttolph, who again, in 1646, sold to Christopher Lawson, and Lawson sold it in part to William Phillips, who granted his purchase to his wife Susan for life ; and the rest was broken up into small lots, Richard Bennett and others holding it.

K. 27. Thomas Meekins. [Mentioned as an owner in Chaffie's record, but there seems to be no farther description. — W.H.W.]

Thomas Meekins hereabout. Beer lane was later cut through this region, and in 1735 Samuel Turrell and other abutters petitioned to have it paved. It is the present Parmenter street.
